DIES LASHES F. D., CABINET IN REPLY

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26—The congressional investigation of un-American activities, headed by Martin Dies, a hitherto little-known Texas congressman, was thrust today into the center of a national controversy in which President Roosevelt condemned the inquiry itself as un-American.

Developments came quickly after the President, in a specially prepared statement at the White House in Washington, sharply criticised committee testimony against Gov. Frank Murphy of Michigan, now in the midst of a fight for re-election.

DIES HITS FOES

The developments were:

1—Rep. Dies, chairman of the investigation, replying to the President, charged that the Roosevelt cabinet has spread "fabrications" about the committee, and that neither the President nor the executive departments of the government had favored the inquiry. In fact, Dies said, the departments sought to obstruct it.

2—Gov. Murphy, Dies charged further, permitted the state police to sit "helplessly by" in the "face of open rebellion" in Michigan . . . "Misdemeanors and felonies were committed . . . under the very eyes of the governor who had sworn to uphold law and order," Dies said, warning that "if open and undisputed rebellion is to be countenanced in the name of political expediency, then constitutional democracy will perish in America."

3—The committee met and adjourned after 20 minutes today to consider, in executive session, a series of briefs in which Harper Knowles, chairman of the Radical Research Committee of the American Legion in California, accused "certain political figures" in the Coast state of Communist activities.

Hurley Asks $16,549,847

Assembled today in special session, the Massachusetts Legislature was asked by Governor Hurley to authorize a $16,549,847 bond issue for hurricane and flood rehabilitation projects.

That sum, the governor stated in his special message, comprised liabilities already incurred by State departments in excess of regular appropriations.

The governor asserted the state had suffered a total loss of $300,000,000 in the hurricane and floods.

OTHER MEASURES

Other recommendations submitted to the Legislature by the chief executive were:

Extension of the life of the emergency relief commission at the pleasure of the governor and executive council.

Legislation to broaden existing powers of state departments and public agencies to enable them to enter upon private property without consent of owners if necessity requires.

That the department of public works be empowered to exercise supervision and control over streams, rivers, waterways, dams and private bridges.

RADIO CONTROL

Legislation to enable privately-owned industrial organizations that have suffered severe damage from floods during the past decade to procure financial aid or rehabilitation.

Centralization and development of existing radio communication systems within the state under the control of a director.

In asking for the $16,549,847 bond issue, the governor recommended that it be spread over a period of five years.

Woods Opened To Hunters

At sundown today, woods in Western Massachusetts and sections of Eastern Massachusetts will be opened to hunting.

Restricted hunting will be permitted in other sections along rivers.

Governor Hurley and the executive council approved this action on recommendation of Conservation Commissioner Ernest J. Dean.

Woods were closed because of forest fire danger resulting from the hurricane.

Woods to be opened are west of the Connecticut river and those east of the Providence-Boston road and of the Boston-Lawrence road to New Hampshire.

'HURRY HOME' DRIVE

Robert Wood, Lynn youth who said he stole an auto in Boston because he was "in a hurry to get home," was held in $2000 in Central municipal court today.

Police testified he drove to Lynn by way of Peabody, selling accessories off the auto along the way.

Bishop Brady Takes His Office

BURLINGTON, Vt., Oct. 26 (AP)—In one of the most solemn ceremonies in the centuries-old liturgy of the Catholic church, His Excellency the Most Rev. Matthew Brady, D. D., today was consecrated Bishop of Burlington by the most Rev. Amleto Giovanni Cicognani, D. D., titular Archbishop of Laodicea and apostolic delegate to the United States.

Hundreds of priests and laity crowded into the Cathedral of the Immaculate Conception to witness the services. Hundreds more thronged the streets to listen to the amplified description.

Bishop Brady succeeded the late Bishop Joseph J. Rice, D. D., who died in April.

'Only War Lies In Munich Pact' --Lloyd George

LONDON, Oct. 26 (AP)—David Lloyd George broke his silence on the peace of Munich today to warn Prime Minister Chamberlain that it would end in a "war without friends" for Great Britain.

The white-haired wartime premier delivered his grim prediction while Chamberlain and his cabinet met for two and one-half hours to review vital matters ranging from defense of home shores to the colonial cost of really satisfying Adolf Hitler. The cabinet announced no decisions.

In his first speech since the Munich pact saved Europe's peace at the price of Czechoslovakia's dismemberment, Lloyd George declared the peace "was a bad peace, and a bad peace is no peace at all."

SEES WAR

Then he pronounced this judgment:

"I will tell you what we shall find, and I am speaking now as one who has taken a great part in the affairs of this country at the most critical moment in the whole of its history:

"We shall have forfeited honor; we shall have lost the respect of the world, and what is still worse, we shall have lost our own self-respect. And in the end there will be no peace. There will be war, and war without friends."

Lloyd George declared: In making the Munich accord "we handed over a little democratic state in central Europe, wrapped in the Union Jack and the Tricolor, to a ruthless dictator who will deny freedom to both Czechs and Germans alike."

Answering questions following the speech, he said he believed "the totalitarian nations would have been crushed like an eggshell had there been war, despite Britain's defense weaknesses.

"I know somthing about arma-

Bluenose Leads In Final Race

ABOARD THE SCHOONER GERTRUDE L. THEBAUD OFF BOSTON, (via radio telephone), Oct. 26 (AP)—The schooner Gertrude L. Thebaud, challenger, and Bluenose, Canadian defender of the International Fishermen's trophy, started the decisive race of their deadlocked title series at 12:05 p. m. (E.S.T.) today after a two-hour postponement because of lack of wind.

When the two schooners were sent away members of Thebaud's crew were irate because a race was being held with such little breeze. The wind was southwesterly and of about eight miles an hour velocity.

Thebaud took the weather berth at the start. The first leg of the 35½ mile irregular triangular course was a 14¾ mile broad reach in a southeasterly direction.

A half hour after the start, Bluenose had a lead of about five lengths. The weather was made to order for the big defender: light and smooth seas—conditions under which she won both of her races.

An hour after the start, Bluenose had opened up a lead of approximately one-quarter of a mile.

President Extends Rail Strike Probe

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26 (INS)—President Roosevelt today extended by 48 hours—until midnight Saturday—the time in which the special fact-finding board may report recommendations in the threatened strike of nearly a million railroad workers.

Additional time was granted with agreement by the board, the railroads and the employes.

Fire-Swept Liner Heads For Port; All Aboard Safe

NEW YORK, Oct. 26 (AP)—Fire aboard ship in perilous, gale-whipped seas of the north Atlantic remained a nightmarish memory today to 591 passengers and 392 crew members on the Deutschland as the German liner headed for New York with her insides charred by flames.

An electrifying "S O S" flashed through the air early last night when fire broke out in the ship's No. 2 hold, after an explosion of unexplained nature.

"Assistance necessary urgently," crackled over the radio waves.

Then—

"Fire in room (hold) No. 2."

A "quiet period" was quickly ordered on the seas and observed by ships far and near.

Ship's wirelesses closed trans-

The fire has been extinguished, we are in no danger and we hope to have the Deutschland in New York harbor Friday about 7 o'clock in the evening.

The passengers behaved admirably. They were quiet and some of them didn't even seem to be aware that anything was happening.

The fire was in No. 2 hold where we were carrying a general cargo. I don't know yet how the fire started. You ask who discovered it. I'll tell you. It discovered itself. Understand. Smoke began coming up and we knew there was a fire.

The sea was very quiet at that time—at 9 o'clock last night. The first class passengers were seeing a movie and the third class people were dancing.

I can't say at this time how much damage we suffered. Our whole crew went to work on the fire, 392 men, and we smothered it.

Of course we were worried. You have to worry sometimes, but the crew was splendid and the passengers were so good. But as I said, I think some of them didn't even know about the fire.

There was no panic. Everybody was very quiet all the time. There was tranquility.

Two ships stood by us, the American Traveler and the Europe. By then our men were getting the fire under control. We worked steadily without stopping and at 5:30 a. m. today it was all out.

Some of the passengers didn't even come out on deck, and I don't think any of them lost any sleep last night. The smoke didn't get into the cabins.

Fear Kidnapers Got Chauffeur, $200,000

Feared kidnaped, possibly by a gem theft gang with Boston connections, a missing New York chauffeur, carrying $200,000 worth of his socially prominent employer's jewelry, was sought by police of eight states today.

ALIMONY REQUESTED—Just a memory now is this picture of playboy tennis star Francis X. Shields and his wife together in a night club. Today, in Bridgeport, Ct., Mrs. Shields asked divorce and alimony. She said he's making more than $5000 a year.

International News Photograph Service

The missing jewels are those of Mrs. Edward N. Townsend, Jr., wife of a wealthy investment and insurance broker of Syosset, L. I., and New York City.

The chauffeur, George Fleming, 38, was last seen when he left Mrs. Townsend in downtown New York, after driving her from Syosset.

BELIEVES HIM HONEST

Fleming was to have taken luggage, containing the jewels, to the Hotel St. Regis.

He failed to arrive there and, at his home, relatives said they had received no word from him.

Reporting Fleming's disappearance, with the jewels, Mrs. Townsend's husband told police he did not believe the chauffeur was a thief.

On the theory that Fleming might have been kidnaped, police sought a possible connection between loss of the Townsend jewelry and several recent thefts of highly-valued gems.

Investigators were also checking a number of big jewelry hauls in Massachusetts.

Authorities here were asked to aid in the search for the chauffeur.

Only such a gang, they said, could hope to dispose of jewels like those of Mrs. Townsend.

The fact that loot taken in several huge New England gem robberies was allegedly handled through "fences" with agencies in Boston added importance to clues pointing in this direction.

QUIZ FORMER DANCER

In New York, police renewed their questioning of Alfred H. Gordon, 46, arrested in France and accused of larceny of jewels valued at $15,000.

Also subjected to further grilling was Sadie Tobias, former dancer, held in connection with jewelry thefts in New Jersey totalling $95,000.

Mrs. Townsend, newest victim of the supposed ring of jewelry thieves, is the former Eleanore Vietor, daughter of socialites Dr. and Mrs. John A. Vietor of Fifth avenue, New York.

Her elopement with Edward Nicoll Townsend, Jr., in 1934, not many weeks after her showy New York debut, was one of the sensations of that social season.

The newlyweds were safely honeymooning on a Bermuda-bound liner before Dad and Mother Vietor learned of the romance.

COUNT CASSINI

MERRY FAHRNEY

Wed to No. 4, Still Has No. 3

CHICAGO, Oct. 26 (AP)—Merry Fahrney, whose martial life has been paraded through the courts for five years, found herself in a new tangle today when the appellate court reversed the divorce from her third husband less than two months after she took her fourth.

The patent medicine heiress' latest mate is Count Oleg Cassini, a dress designer whom she married in an elaborate Russian orthodox ceremony in New York.

On February 3, she obtained a divorce from Baron Arturo Berlinglieri.

The divorce was thrown out by the appellate court which stated:

"The obtaining and granting of divorces has almost become an industry. It is now time that those charged with upholding the law clean these 'Augean tables.'"

Net Star Shields Sued for Divorce

BRIDGEPORT, Ct., Oct. 26 (INS)—Francis X. Shields, of Greenwich, for years one of America's outstanding tennis players, today was named defendant in a divorce suit filed here by his socially prominent wife, Mrs. Rebecca Shields, also of Greenwich.

In her complaint the wife charged the tennis player with cruelty and intemperance. Shields was recently involved in a New York night club fracas with a stockbroker friend.

Mrs. Shields, who married the net star in 1932, claimed her husband's cruelty began in January, 1935. She also alleged that "for more than one year past" her husband has been intemperate.

She asked for alimony in her suit, claiming Shield's annual income exceeds $5000.

The suit was not disclosed until today when it was filed, but it was reported papers in the case were served on the tennis star Oct. 17 at his Greenwich home by Deputy Sheriff Waldo W. Lowdon.

Shields was ranged number one in the tennis field in 1933 and was among the highest six ranking stars until 1935.

After remaining away from the major tennis battles until 1938, he made a comeback during the tournament at Forest Hills this year, but was eliminated by Jack Bromich, Australian star.

'Red Rose' Smiles, Pulls The Trigger, and Dies

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 26—"She simply smiled and pulled the trigger."

In this terse sentence, Carl E. Weber, 38, married, a credit manager, described the tragic end of pretty 22-year-old Claudia Huebler, unemployed stenographer, whose death was officially recorded today as suicide.

Detectives who probed the mysterious death of the "Red Rose" Amarillo, Tex., titian-haired beauty, were satisfied with the statement of Weber that she shot herself with his revolver while he was a visitor in her apartment.

Weber, who worked a few doors away from the store room from which the girl was discharged on Saturday, said he called on her to "cheer her up."

CLAUDIA HUEBLER

"I started to show her some card tricks," he told police, "and took my gun, which I carry for payroll protection, and placed it on the table between us.

"As I riffled the cards I dropped one on the floor and when I picked it up I saw Claudia had the gun pointed at her temple.

"I yelled at her, 'Look out, that gun's loaded!' but she simply smiled and pulled the trigger.

"I was so stunned that I did not know what to do. I pocketed the gun and walked out, but later decided to notify the authorities."

Mrs. Weber rushed to the defense of her husband when he was held on suspension in connection with the shooting tragedy.

"Tell him it will be all right," she replied to police who notified her of the 'Red Rose's' death.

"Tell him to keep his chin up," she added.

Bay State Pair Win $50,000

Riches tumbled into the laps of a Leominster dentist and his wife today although Lady Luck turned a generally cold shoulder on other New Englanders in the Irish Sweepstakes on the classic Ceasarewitch at Newmarket, England.

Dr. Ernest F. and Mrs. Florence B. Lincoln, of Union street, will share $50,000 through their ticket on Fet, which placed third in the race.

Also enriched by $50,000, through a ticket on the same horse, was Rose Masterbone, of Gridley st., Bristol, Ct., only other New Englander to share in any of the three major prizes in the sweepstakes.

N. E. SHARES $140,688

Their winnings and awards to holders of tickets on non-starting horses, as well as the several who won residual and consolation prizes, assured New England of a total of $140,688 from the approximately $7,000,000 distributed in the sweeps.

The race was won by Contrevent. Second money went to Dubonnet.

The dentist, a lifelong and prominent Leominster resident, learned of his good fortune while busy at his office. To a Boston Evening American representative, one of the first to speak to him, he said:

"About all I can say is I am surprised — agreeably surprised. My wife and I never expected to win after our previous poor luck. Of course, I feel very happy about it."

Asked about his plans for the future, Dr. Lincoln replied laughingly:

"Oh, I guess I'll just put the prize money with what I've got."

He chuckled when pressed for more information about "what I've got" and replied.

"You know, my wife and I have lived the simple life too long to let this upset us. Of course we're pleased. But there won't be any splurging."

The Lincoln's have no children.

King to Visit Quins Nursery

OTTAWA, Oct. 26 (Canadian Press)—King George's visit next summer will include one of the most impressive gatherings of Canadian statesmen in the history of the Dominion, a call upon the Dionne quintuplets and a trip of several days into the United States.

Plans were made known here for the first meeting ever held of the complete Canadian privy council of 30 members.

As guardian of the quintuplets, the King will travel with his Queen and royal party to Callander, Ont., where the country doctor who brought the five girls into the world, Dr. A. R. Dafoe, will be at the nursery.

Leaders Greet French Envoy

State, city and religious leaders greeted Count Rene de Saint-Quentin, French ambassador to the United States, today in official visits paid by the diplomat at the start of his four-day sojourn in Boston.

Accompanied by his secretary and M. Francois Briere, French consul in Boston, the count visited the offices of Gov. Hurley and Mayor Tobin, discussing Franco-American relations and recent political developments in France.

CALLS ON CARDINAL

Later he spent some time with William Cardinal O'Connell, conversing with him both in English and French. The count then left for Harvard, where he was luncheon guest of President James Bryant Conant.

After the luncheon, in company with Harvard officials and Consul Briere, the ambassador toured Harvard's Widener Library.

Later he visited the Fogg Museum, where 18th and 19th century French paintings and drawings were being displayed. Tonight he was listed as guest speaker at the semi-annual banquet of the "Societe Historique Franco-Americaine."

STATE TO HONOR HIM

Tomorrow he spends most of his day in Worcester, visiting Assumption College and attending a civic luncheon in his honor.

Friday, Mayor Tobin has invited him to a civic luncheon while Gov. Hurley has listed Saturday for a similar luncheon by state notables. Friday afternoon he will attend a French music concert.

He plans to return to Washington next Sunday.

Autoist Given 2 Months in Jail

Pleading guilty to a third offense of drunken driving, Theodore J. Holmes, 35, of Summer street, Newton, was given a two months' jail sentence in Suffolk superior court today.

5 Hurt Seriously In Auto Crash

Five persons were injured, four seriously, in a head-on collision between two automobiles early today on the new Concord turnpike near Spring street, Lexington.

Taken to the Emerson Hospital, Concord, were Mr. and Mrs. Curtis M. White of Lawrence street, Gardner; Mr. and Mrs. Ernest D. Hogland, Mayfield street, Gardner, and Murray a McKinney of Brown street, Waltham.

White, 32, executive of a Gardner stove manufacturing company, and operator of one of the cars, suffered a fractured skull. His wife, 30, sustained two fractured ribs.

Hogland, 31, a passenger in the White car, has a possible skull fracture and his wife, 30, a double fracture of the left leg and fractured collarbone.

McKinney, driver of the second car, sustained a fractured skull and internal injuries.

Child Breaks Skull In Fall Off Truck

Four-year-old Claire Sullivan of Simpson road, Roxbury, suffered a fractured skull today, falling from the rear of an ice truck when it started suddenly.

Police said she had climbed on the truck to get a piece of ice. She was taken to City Hospital.

RUBY EATON
Warns Girls

Hub Gungirl Sizes Up Life

Transferred from Sherborn Reformatory to Salem jail, at her own request, ed-haired, pretty Ruby Eaton, one-time Charlestown "gungirl," spoke her mind today.

"Listen," she said. "They used to call me the Mae West of Charlestown, and I thought that was great stuff.

"But here's what it got me. Room and board—behind bars!

"The cops were too smart for me.

"They caught me with a gun, and I had to take the rap.

"But now I'm going to show the world I can stage a comeback.

"My first step in the right direction was getting out of Sherborn. They were supposed to reform me there, but it didn't work.

WOULD REFORM SELF

"I'd rather reform myself. I can do it here, with nobody trying to analyze me.

"I'm 26. I've been around. I've seen enough to give other girls the lowdown.

"There's two things they'll steer clear of, if they're wise to themselves.

"One is booze, and the other is the kind of fellows that seem to be in the easy money.

"The liquor spoils your looks and queers your judgment.

"And the easy-money guys land you in the hoosegow."

INDEFINITE TERM

According to Charlestown district court records Ruby Eaton was found guilty of illegal possession of a revolver and was sentenced August 27, 1938, to an indefinite term in Sherborn reformatory.

At that time she said her legal name was Mrs. Ruby Eaton Buck.

Red Cross to Spend $1,250,000 in N. E.

HARTFORD, Conn., Oct. 26 (INS)—The American Red Cross will spend between $1,250,000 and $1,500,000 for rehabilitation work in the New England hurricane and flood areas.

531 Phantom Auto Owners Are Hunted

Somewhere in Massachusetts today there are 531 motorists who must pay their excise tax under penalty of revocation of registration,—only the registry cannot find them.

$481,380 Fight Won by Dever

Atty.-Gen. Paul A. Dever won his fight today to prevent payment by the state of $481,380.45 to the Boston, Worcester & New York Street Railway Co. in connection with construction of the Boston-Worcester turnpike.

In a ruling of the full bench of the Supreme Judicial Court, a finding by Judge Joseph Walsh in Superior Court that the line was entitled to $363,303 plus interest was reversed and Dever's contention the contract with the public works department was invalid was upheld.

The line sought to recover on the basis of a contract signed with the public works department in 1932 for the taking of their franchise between Framingham and Brookline for the turnpike construction.

The full bench ruling, upholding Dever's exceptions to the finding of Judge Walsh, declared the public works department had no right to "buy off" street railways.

Lyle Talbot's Burns Listed as Serious

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Oct. 26 (INS)—Lyle Talbot, handsome hero of the films, was in a serious condition today from burns received as he played the role of a real life hero and rescued a friend from a $50,000 fire which destroyed the actor's Beverly Hills home.

Talbot, trapped with a house guest on the second floor, dragged the other man, Franklin D. Parker, an actor, through a bedroom window to a narrow second-story ledge, but not before they were badly burned.

Parkers' Kidnap Appeal Date Set

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 26 (INS)—The U. S. district court of appeals today set next Wednesday for argument on appeal of Ellis H. Parker, veteran New Jersey sleuth, and his son, Ellis, Jr., from their conviction in connection with the kidnaping of Paul H. Wendell, disbarred attorney of Trenton, N. J.

The Parkers were found guilty in U. S. district court in New Jersey in July, 1937, of conspiracy to kidnap Wendell, who allegedly was tortured into "confessing" he kidnaped the Lindbergh baby.

Gets 'Bail Bargain' in Raid Case

When William Campbell, alleged operator of a raided South End gaming room, appealed a three months' jail sentence in Municipal court today, Judge Joseph Donovan gave him a "barga n" bail rate.

The "bargain" was on condition that Campbell pay $5 fines imposed on five men found guilty of being present where gaming was in progress.

Campbell agreed and his bail was reduced, forthwith, from $500 to $300.

Four other defendants, charged with being present in the "gaming room," paid their own fines of $5 each.

40 Belmont Auto Drivers in Court

Forty Belmont motorists, including many of the town's best people, socially speaking, were in Cambridge district court today, charged with auto traffic violations.

Police said a soaring accident rate in Belmont was responsible for the campaign.

Defendants who pleaded guilty were let off with payment of $5 costs. Those convicted after pleading not guilty were fined $5.

Safe, $1000 Stolen At Lumber Yard

ATTLEBORO, Oct. 26 (AP)—Thieves smashed the safe at the M. F. Ashley & Co. lumber yard during the night, police reported today, and stole $1000. A similar robbery in a Mansfield lumber company office occurred a few weeks ago.

Invaders Find Hankow Ablaze

HANKOW, Oct. 26 (AP)—A four-year-old Chinese girl stood on the Hankow bund today and welcomed the first Japanese advance unit to reach the international area of this fallen Chinese industrial center.

Arriving in two armed motorboats, the Japanese detachment landed near the smoldering ruins of the Japanese consulate only a few minutes after a group of Chinese soldiers and stragglers had dodged down a side street.

Japanese officers searched the girl and then allowed her to toddle away. A few minutes later British officers appeared. Then Father Jacquinot, organizer of a safety zone for refugees, informed the Japanese of the boundaries of the zone.

JAPS TAKE VAST AREA

The Japanese officers announced gunboats would arrive with troops later today to begin occupation of the city whose capture marked culmination of a campaign which gave the invaders an area of China one-fifth as large as the United States with a population equal to that of the Soviet Union.

Fires which retreating Chinese started yesterday continued to blaze in the Chinese quarters and the former Japanese concession. Damage under the Chinese policy to leave the invaders only "scorched earth" to conquer was severe in the Japanese area.

The consulate was blown up, houses were burned and looted, and the Japanese navy headquarters was destroyed. In the Chinese district a big iron works continued to blaze and there were a number of fires in the neighborhood of what had been Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek's headquarters.

FOREIGN TROOPS ON GUARD

Although small remnants of the Chinese army of 1,000,000 which had attempted to stall the Japanese drive still remained in or near Hankow, most of this force had moved to the south and west.

Despite the Chinese military collapse and imminence of Japanese occupation, calm prevailed in the special administrative districts—former foreign concessions—guarded by foreign troops.

Thousands of refugees crowded into these areas last night. The districts were so packed that it was impossible to walk on the sidewalks.

As the Japanese forces reached the environs of Hankow late yesterday fuses of explosives planted in military and public utility buildings and in communication centers were touched off.

BLASTS ROCK CITY

Explosions rocked the city throughout the afternoon and evening. Many windows in foreign areas were smashed by the force of the blasts.

In the foreign administrative zones, British naval detachments doing police work in cooperation with American bluejackets removed explosives from most buildings where they had been placed, including the Japanese Yokohama specie bank.

The fall of Hankow brought to fulfillment the main Japanese objective in the nearly 16 months of warfare. It crushed the center of resistance from which China had sent troops and supplies to the central and North China fronts.

New German, Jap, Italian Pact Planned

LONDON, Oct. 26 (INS)—The London Daily Mail reported from Rome today that Italy, Germany and Japan have decided to make a new alliance, supplementing their anti-Communist pact.

The anti-Communist pact, according to the Mail, will be strengthened by new articles under which Italy, Germany and Japan will adopt a common policy on European affairs, while their three armed forces will be co-ordinated behind this policy.

U. S. Sailors Defend Americans in Hankow

HANKOW, Oct. 26 (INS)—American sailors who landed here yesterday from the gunboats Guam and Luzon devoted themselves today to protecting the 125 United States nationals still in Hankow. There are 82 men, 36 women, and seven children among the Americans here. Among these, 77 are missionaries and the others are business men, newspaper correspondents and officials.

Armistice Day Proclaimed

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26 (AP)—President Roosevelt, proclaiming November 11 Armistice Day, said today that "peace can be obtained only by non-aggression."

The President's proclamation, issued in conformity with various congressional resolutions, said:

"It is especially fitting at this time of world unrest that November 11, 1938, the 20th anniversary of the armistice, should be observed with suitable ceremonies manifesting our belief that peace can be attained only by non-aggression, and can be made enduring only by respect for the rights of others and good will among the nations of the world."

Gen. Franco Warned Of U-Boat Threat

LONDON, Oct. 26 (INS)—A threat by Spanish Insurgent Generalissimo Francisco Franco to resort to submarine warfare against foreign merchant ships aiding the Barcelona government brought a stern warning from the British and French governments against such tactics today.

International News Service learned that both Paris and London are seriously perturbed over Franco's threat.

Rain Halts New Drives in Spain

HENDAYE, France (at the Spanish Frontier), Oct. 26 (AP)—Heavy rainstorms halted general offensives the government and insurgent high commands had planned to start today.

The rains, heaviest in eastern Spain, flooded rivers, washed out bridges in several places and disrupted troop transportation.

PECAN EXPORT SUBSIDY

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26 (INS)—The Agriculture Department today announced a $350,000 export subsidy program for unshelled pecans.

Periled Liner Headed for N. Y.

milters and bent their ears toward the position 200 miles southeast of Cape Race, New foundland, where the Deutschland was in peril.

Ships within range promptly turned about, surging off course in a mad race to help. Land bases and ships received and intercepted and relayed a maze of alarming reports.

After a winning two-hour battle with the flames, Captain Karl Steincke, master of the ill-starred veteran of four other mishaps at sea, radioed to the New York office of the Associated Press:

"Fire under control!"

DANGER IS CHECKED

With the peril ended most passengers retired to safe but troubled slumbers.

Captain Steincke said not a single passenger was injured.

The middle-sized 15-year-old ship, pride of the post-war German republic, left Hamburg last Thursday and was due in New York next Friday.

It is of 21,046 tons and is similar to three other ships built by the Hamburg American for the transatlantic service — the Hansa, the New York and the Hamburg.

The southeasterly gale and rain sweeping the Newfoundland banks increased the Deutschland's peril while the fire was raging.

Passengers were at dinner, dancing or in the cocktail lounges when the dread cry of "Fire!" first swept the ship. First efforts to confine the blaze apparently were futile but the flames did not disable the radio.

BIG PASSENGER LIST

Finally quelling the immediate danger, Captain Steincke and his radio operator set to the task of turning back all but three of the ships racing to help.

Vessels which proceeded to stand by in case of further need were the American Traveler, the S. S. Collamer and the Norwegian ship Europe.

Besides the transatlantic ships, those going to the rescue included U. S. Coast Guard vessels from Boston and New London, Conn.

Records here indicate the ship was loaded almost to its passenger capacity. It was designed to carry 76 in cabin class, 169 in tourist and 345 in third.

American passengers aboard included Thomas C. Smith, attached to the American legation at Copenhagen; Edward A. Gardiner and family, Bryn Mawr, Pa.; Mr. and Mrs. Karl Schaefer, San Francisco; Sarah Elizabeth Pepper, Philadelphia, and Elizabeth A. Cavanna, art director of the Presbyterian publications, Philadelphia.

Czechs Reply To Hungary

PRAGUE, Oct. 26 (INS)—Czechoslovakia's reply to the latest compromise territorial demands from Hungary was forwarded to Budapest today as both sides redoubled their efforts to settle the controversy by peaceful means.

Czech Foreign Minister Frantisek Chvalkovsky handed the reply, contents of which were kept secret, to the Hungarian minister for transmission to his government.

Quiz Waitress In Taxi Holdup

An attractive South Boston waitress was being questioned by Cambridge police inspectors today in connection with the slugging and robbing of Franklin Leeds, 68, of Eliot street, Milton, during a taxicab ride in Cambridge early yesterday.

The young woman, picked up as she left her place of employment, has admitted, Captain John J. Canney declared, that she was present when the elderly man was beaten.

Leeds, found unconscious in a Cogswell street, North Cambridge, coal yard, is in serious condition at Cambridge City Hospital with a broken nose, possible brain concussion and facial lacerations.

Leeds lost $75.

Nazis Attack Churches; Call Jews 'Hostages'

BERLIN, Oct. 26 (AP)—The weekly organ of the Nazi black-shirted SS guards today attacked the Roman Catholic and Protestant confessional synod churches for their alleged unpatriotic attitude in the German-Czechoslovak crisis, and declared Jews in Germany and Italy were "hostages."

The paper, Das Schwarze Korps, said "Jews living in Germany and Italy are hostages given into our hands by fate so that we may defend ourselves in the most effective manner against attacks by world Jewry."

HELD AS HOSTAGES

"This assertion may seem rather severe," the paper continued, "to those who in their soft sentimentality always are at hand with a slogan about the 'innocent Jew.'

"Whoever envisages in all its ramifications the incitement to war which world Jewry has unloosed upon us along a broad front and whoever recognizes the true intentions of these world criminals would be a fool indeed if in the face of such a threat he permitted anything like compassion to surge within him."

The attack on the churches was contained in an article captioned "A Squaring of Accounts" and taking up the entire first two pages of the paper.

It charged that "in the fateful hour of the German people that part of the clergy which still dabbles in politics stood faithfully on the side of the opponents."

ASSAILS CATHOLICS

The paper further said that monks arriving from Rome stated the Holy Father was convinced the Nazi Third Reich would be ended soon.

"These revelations of the Vatican determined the attitude of political Catholicism and its treasonable activity," it went on.

The daily newspaper of Julius Streicher, anti-Jewish agitator and chief aide of Chancellor Hitler in Franconia, announced that the last Jews had left Rothenburg-Above Tauber, famous medieval walled city.

Meanwhile, those Jewish physicians who may continue to practice until further notice—but with only Jewish patients—received detailed directions for conducting their practice.

A Solomon Needed: 3 Mothers, 1 Baby

WESTPORT, Conn., Oct. 26—Maybe it would have been easy for Solomon. But after all, in the case which made him famous, he had only two mothers to choose between, in awarding custody of a baby.

Whereas Judge Austin Wakeman, in probate court here today, heard claims of three mothers to weigh and consider.

At stake is the future welfare and happiness of dimpled, smiling little 10-months-old Betty Lou Fracos.

Two foster mothers, Mrs. Winifred Buttery and Mrs. Alma Brown, came to court, each asserting she had been given guardianship of Betty Lou by the baby's real mother, 18-year-old Anna Fracos.

Mrs. Buttery, 33, wife of a well-to-do landscape gardener, said papers permitting her to adopt the child were signed by Miss Fracos on October 15.

Mrs. Brown, wife of a gasoline station operator, produced similar papers apparently signed by Miss Fracos on October 17.

The situation was still further complicated by statements of counsel indicating that Miss Fracos, the real mother, was now in the Brown home as a domestic and wanted little Betty Lou there so as not to be separated from her.

On the other hand, Mrs. Buttery told the court she had taken care of Betty Lou since the child's birth, had bought clothes and toys for her and loved her as if she were her own.

On advice of an attorney, Mrs. Buttery said, she put Betty Lou temporarily in an orphanage, pending adoption proceedings.

Mrs. Brown took the baby from the institution and has her now, Judge Wakeman was told.

WE HAVE BEEN taking a little nibble at that 3 to 1 that the lads along Broadway are laying against Tom Dewey in the New York gubernatorial race. It is not that we have any inside information or even any strong convictions as to the result of the race —it is the price.

We think the layers are out of line at 3 to 1 and any horse player will tell you that it is the bounden duty of every American citizen to take advantage of a layer when you think you have caught him out of line, which scientists contend is one reason why the layers are generally riding in their own automobiles and the players are walking.

Speaking of horse players, we like the story the lads are telling of the confirmed horse player who rushed out to the track one day and confided to a friend:

"Gee, I hope I break even today. I need the money."

WELL, anyway, to get back to the New York gubernatorial race, it is a curious thing that if you go into No. 10 Downing Street, which is what the lads are now calling Lindy's because so many affairs of state are settled there daily, and ask for quotations on the impending election, a big-hearted layer will say:

"Lehman ought to be 1 to 100 —I'm laying 12 to 5."

But he will eventually give you 3 to 1, if you like Dewey, just as a mark of his personal favor. At least that is the way a layer put the matter to us, though we learned later you can get that price in China, as the saying is, meaning everywhere.

IN SHORT, Governor Lehman is a red-hot betting favorite for re-election at the moment, but it is our guess that the price will shorten up materially presently, and then if we do not chance to still fancy our bet, we can lay it off and probably make money. (Ah, a business man!) We think the price within a few days of the election will be about 8 to 5 with Governor Lehman still favorite, of course.

We say "of course" because off the dope Governor Lehman figures to be a consistent favorite right down to the closing of the polls as far as the betting market is concerned, though against any other man in the State, Dewey would probably have opened at even money, and might be favorite by now.

The result of the New York Daily Mirror poll of Up-State New York is being awaited with considerable interest. It will have a definite effect on the betting. The layers and the players have past performances to go by on Governor Lehman in State elections but none on Dewey, and the poll will give a pretty accurate line on the way the wind is blowing among the apple knockers.

UP-STATE is supposed to be Republican but "Memphis" took a bet of $2000 against $200 the other day that Lehman carries the State outside of New York City, or 20 to 1. "Memphis" is a layer. We do not know his baptismal entitlements, but what better name than "Memphis" could a man want?

We are told by Wall Street gentlemen that there is plenty of Dewey money in the section. That reminds us that there was plenty of Landon money there, too. Oddly enough, the Landon campaign was one of the biggest betting campaigns in history, probably for the reason that betting has become more of a popular pastime than ever before.

Navy Day Celebrated In Boston Tomorrow

Thousands of visitors are expected at the Boston Navy Yard tomorrow in connection with the annual observance of Navy Day.

Highlight of the local celebration will be the meeting at the Parkman Bandstand on the Common at 12:15, with Governor Hurley, Mayor Tobin, Senator Walsh, Charles Francis Adams and Frank S. Adams of the Maritime Association among the speakers.

At 3:30 tomorrow afternoon, there will be exercises for children in the auditorium of the men's store at Jordan Marsh's.

One of the outstanding exhibits at the Navy Yard will be shown in Building 37, which houses an unusual and valuable collection of ship models, also photographs of a great many naval vessels, modern and old, showing the development of the United States Navy since its beginning.

Models of the U. S. S. Cincinnati, with two stacks; U. S. S. Columbia, four stacks; the old paddle wheel steamer U. S. S. Mississippi, built in 1841, and the U. S. S. Constitution, known as the "New Ironsides," will be shown.

Another point of interest for Navy Yard visitors will be the Frigate Constitution.

The exercises will be climaxed by a ball at the Copley Plaza, with the crack Marine Corps Reserve drill team giving an exhibition drill.

Dies Lashes Roosevelt And Cabinet in Reply

been accused before the committee to appear in defense of themselves. This included Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins, whose impeachment was demanded by the California Legion spokesman for her "coddling of alien criminals." Dies himself said later that he was "seriously considering" impeachment proceedings against the only woman cabinet member in U. S. history for her failure to carry out the deportation laws.

5—Chairman Dies declared, that, despite Mr. Roosevelt's attack, he would continue the investigation "undeterred and unafraid." Since the committee's appropriations are dwindling rapidly, however, Capitol Hill observers in Washington speculated on whether an open fight in Congress would result if Dies seeks additional funds to carry on.

At the White House today, neither the President nor his secretaries had anything to add to the statement which was issued in answer to a question put by a correspondent at yesterday's press conference.

Dies proposed creation of a commission to decide whether evidence before the committee is proper.

He said that he would appoint one lawyer, Mr. Roosevelt could appoint another, and the two could select a third.

"I have known from the beginning that neither the President nor his advisers favored this investigation," said Dies. "The departments not only refused to comply with the request of Congress that our committee be supplied with adequate personnel, but they have thrown every obstacle in the way of a successful investigation.

CITES TEMPLE CHARGES

"In addition to this, a well-planned campaign of misrepresentation, ridicule and sarcasm was conducted by those who hoped to discredit the investigation. This campaign was aided by members of the cabinet.

"The Shirley Temple fabrication was conceived by certain radical writers whose sympathies for Soviet Russia are matters of common knowledge. Immediately, and as if by pre-arrangement, Secretary Perkins and Secretary Ickes repeated this crude and silly fabrication, thus hoping to lend the color of truth and respectability. Even the President was induced to refer to the Shirley Temple fabrication in one of his press conferences."

Dies was referring to testimony before his committee that many movie stars, including Shirley Temple, were "dupes" when letters of greeting were published in a Paris Communist newspaper. After this testimony, Dies complained that many people twisted the testimony to make it appear that the committee branded the little movie star as a Communist.

DEMOCRATS HEARD TOO

Dies asserted that if Mr. Roosevelt had read the testimony by the committee, he would have found that Democrats testified the same as Republicans regarding the Michigan strike situation and activities of Communists, that former officials of the United Automobile Workers testified, and that the principal witness, Lieut. Mulbar, chief of State Police, holds a Civil Service position and is non-partisan.

Asserting that a committee investigator spent two months in Detroit with instructions to conduct a fearless investigation, Dies asserted that the question of politics was not considered.

"The testimony with reference to the Michigan situation showed very clearly that well-known Communists instigated and engineered the sit-down strikes and so-called Lansing holiday, when a mob of 15,000 people barricaded the state capitol and 3000 of them, many of whom were armed with clubs, were ordered to march on the capitol and to bring back part of it with them," said Dies.

UNDER MURPHY'S EYES

"It cannot be disputed that misdemeanors and felonies were committed on that disgraceful day under the very eyes of the governor who had sworn to uphold law and order. If open and undisputed rebellion is to be countenanced in the name of political expediency, the constitutional democracy will perish in America.'

Dies, asserting that the people "are entitled to know the truth,' said it was his "duty" to conduct a "fearless" investigation regardless of political expediency.

"Under my conception of public duty, it would have been wrong to shield Governor Murphy simply because he was a Democrat and a strong friend of the President's," Dies added. "While I deeply regret the President's bitter attack on a congressional committee of an independent department of the government, and while I regret that the President did not read the testimony before issuing his statement, I wish to make it plain that I shall continue to do my duty undeterred and unafraid.

"If open and undisguised rebellion is to be countenanced in the name of political expediency, then constitutional democracy in America will perish. While I deeply regret the President's bitter attack upon a congressional committee of an independent Congress, I shall continue to do my duty undeterred and unafraid."

"Boston After Dark," by George Holland, appears every day in the Boston American.

Impeach Hint Against Sec. Perkins

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26—Congressman Dies declared today in his clash with the President and cabinet that he was seriously considering bringing impeachment charges against Secretary of Labor Perkins."

She is the only woman ever to hold a cabinet post. She is alleged to have failed to enforce deportation laws against radical aliens.

2 States Seek Roosevelt Aid

By GEORGE DURNO
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26—Adhering to the long-accepted principle that it is well to comfort your friends and confound your enemies, President Roosevelt today was back in the thick of the off-year state election campaigns.

When he rushed to the aid of his old friend, Governor Frank Murphy, seeking re-election in Michigan, with a blast which incidentally jarred the Dies House committee investigating un-American activities, Mr. Roosevelt set political managers wondering whether he might not also take a hand in Pennsylvania, Ohio and other states where the Democrats are up against a tough battle.

AID IN PENNSYLVANIA

Pressure is already on to get the President to make a statement branding as false the assertions of Republican candidates in Pennsylvania that their Democratic opponents lack the support and approval of the White House.

Since his return from Hyde Park, Mr. Roosevelt also has received reports that Senator Robert Bulkley—for whom the Executive made a pre-primary speech—is having rough sledding in his fight to keep Republican Charles Taft from winning a senatorial seat in Ohio.

PRAISE OF MURPHY

President Roosevelt came to the assistance of Governor Murphy in Michigan in his best two-fisted manner—and incidentally set the stage to prove definitely how strong the New Deal and organized labor are in the state.

He eulogized Murphy, one of his floor lieutenants as Chicago in 1932 and later his governor-general of the Philippines, as "a profoundly religious, able and law-abiding governor."

He charged that the Dies committee, in a quest for headlines, had "permitted itself to be used in a flagrantly unfair and un-American attempt to influence an election" this by letting "a disgruntled Republican judge, a discharged Republican city manager and a couple of officious police officers make lurid charges against Governor Murphy" in connection with his handling of the automobile sit-down strikes two years ago.

IMPROVED BOND BREAD

☆ More flavor

☆ Smoother texture

☆ Stays fresher

WE do not believe any bread in New England begins to compare with our Improved Bond Bread. But we realize that we may be a little prejudiced. So we invite you to try it, and decide for yourself.

Just butter one of those creamy tender slices and bite right into it. Ask yourself, honestly, if you've ever tasted any bread that is quite as good. Make any other kind of comparison you desire . . . we're perfectly willing to let our Bond Bread prove itself to you.

There is just one thing we'd like to point out. Bond Bread costs you only 10c . . . you don't have to pay a penny more for its extra goodness.

COSTS NO MORE THAN ORDINARY BREAD 10¢

Lloyd George Warns of War

The greatest arena in the world so far as numbers are concerned and so far as its influence is concerned.

The veteran statesman, one of the architects of the post-war settlement which created Czechoslovakia, spoke at the City Temple to the London Free Church Federation Council. His address was broadcast to the United States.

Referring to the wars in China, Ethiopia and Spain and the partitioning of Czechoslovakia, Lloyd George said:

"We have descended during these years the ladder of dishonor rung by rung. Are we going to go any lower?

"We all shared in a sort of thrill of relief which passed through this country when we realized we were to be spared, at any rate for some time, the horror and squalor of war.

LOSS OF HONOR

"But that relief is now beginning to be suffused with the sense of shame that we purchased peace at the price of conscience and honor.

"Alas! That is only one of a series of episodes of the same kind that have occurred, especially during the last seven years, where we have subordinated honor to the quiet life.

"We have lost honor, but we have not gained tranquility."

He went on to describe how Lloyd George visited Hitler at Berchtesgaden and Godesberg and pleaded with him on the eastern question.

"Adolf Hitler," he said, "wanted to get rid of a democratic and free country (Czechoslovakia), contiguous to his own, where principles of liberty, equality and justice were freely administered to Sudeten Germans and Czechs alike.

"It was a plague spot as far as he was concerned and he was afraid that sooner or later the germs would cross the frontier."

CAN'T DEFEND SELF

Declaring that Britain's defenses were in a "ghastly muddle" Lloyd George cried:

"We were not even ready to defend ourselves, let alone rescue others . . . but is incompetence a justification for bad faith?

"Instead of 58 nations, you wouldn't get two to follow us today."

Lloyd George said the weaker nations of Europe were going to Hitler instead of to Britain and France and "pleading for mercy.

"We have had a transient peace which disregards conscience, which has trampled on good faith and honor," he said. "And we have turned a deaf ear to the cry of the oppressed.

"That is a bad peace, and a bad peace is no peace at all."

Coercion of WPA Men Shown by Senate Probe

TAKE POLITICS OUT OF RELIEF

Citizens, before you vote, ask these questions of all candidates for Congress:

"Do you stand for the principle that there must be no political control or influence in the handling of relief funds, pump-priming money, agricultural benefit money or social security money?

"Do you favor the principle of having all such public expenditures supervised by a non-partisan, non-political board employing civil service personnel?

"Do you pledge yourself to work for the proper measures to put these principles into practical operation?"

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26 (INS)—Direct evidence of the "political coercion" of relief workers in Pennsylvania by Democratic leaders has been unearthed by Senate investigators, the Senate campaign fund committee has announced.

Chairman Sheppard (D) of Texas declared the Senate agents found relief workers being coerced into making political contributions to Democratic campaign funds in Luzerne, Northampton and Lebanon counties.

At the same time Sheppard announced the agents had found evidence of wrong-doing by Republican workers.

The report, which Senator James J. Davis (R) charged contained material favorable to the WPA, will be continued, said Sheppard.

"Our agents found 14 workers on a WPA project near Wilkes-Barre were transferred from a project near their homes to one a long distance away because they were wearing Republican campaign buttons," said Sheppard.

On account of [illegible] WPA [illegible] suspended.

"The committee investigators reported that, in Luzerne county, large numbers of WPA workers were mailed postal cards requesting them to call at Democratic headquarters upon particular dates at different hours.

"Further evidence showed that when these relief workers called at the Democratic headquarters they were solicited for campaign contributions, in some cases the amount requested being $100."

Battle Over Confession At Spy Trial

NEW YORK (Oct. 26 AP)—Counsel for defendant Johanna Hofmann 26, alleged member of a German spy ring in this country, today finished cross-examination of the government's key witness, Guenther Gustav Rumrich.

The defense lawyer, George C. Dix, vainly moved for the suppression of evidence taken by federal agents from Frau Hofmann's stateroom aboard the North German Lloyd Liner Europa where she was supposed to be a hairdresser at the time of her arrest last February.

Dix charged that the statement was wrung from the German girl "by duress."

Maurice Loeppa a U. S. [illegible] coast guard the next witness identified a photograph of Karl Schlueter, alleged payoff man for the spy ring, as a man he had seen talking to William Lonkowski, one of the fugitive defendants, at the Ritz-Carlton pier on September 24, 1935.

Loeppa testified that Schlueter boarded the ship during a storm. The defense [illegible] Lonkowski and found a package of letters and photographs next day.

Assistant U. S. Attorney Leon Henderson read a translation of one of the letters which said it would take some time to get [illegible] information about the [illegible] at Langley Field.

Boston After Dark

By GEORGE HOLLAND

JITTERBUG HANGOVER. Who stole the show, Vallee or Goodman? . . . My vote would go to Goodman . . . However, the crowd would make it an "even Stephen" proposition . . . Your reporter's verdict for Goodman came as a result of the lack of punch the Vallee show registered on the Garden loud speakers . . . At one end of the Garden the crowd was yelling for Goodman and at the other end they were screaming for Vallee, making it a Mexican standoff as far as the crowd was concerned.

Both Maestro Goodman and Maestro Vallee open in New York tonight . . . The Boston Evening American Christmas Basket Fund and your reporter wish the best in box office receipts for these two "swell guys."

GEORGE HOLLAND

It probably took Victor Moore twenty-four hours to recover from his attempt to "get into the swing of things" at the Garden . . . Jitterbugs will find a haven at the Brown Derby where Mickey Alpert and his orchestra are swinging out in what professionals call real Dixieland Mcuf . . .

Once Over Lightly:

Muriel Melnee Derby doll has been contracted to appear at the Cave Lane in Paris in 1939 . . . The laugh about Bing Crosby managing records with his brother, Bob, and his band is, that five years ago I predicted to the proselyting of his name . . . Last week he flew in from the coast to record the Bob Crosby band at the Blackhawk restaurant in Chicago . . .

Red Norvo and Mildred Bailey (his wife) will open at the Famous Door in New York as successors to Count Basie . . .

The jitterbugs will be interested in this . . . If anyone discounts the importance of the Jitterbug influence in the current times, he or she is a "punchy" . . . The 28,000 at the Boston Garden Monday night proves there are plenty of that classification and they must be reckoned with . . .

At the present rate we would not be surprised to see a title-ist candidate for a public office soon . . .

Benjamin B. Ingerar, chief acolyte for Fred Allen, makes known that Fred plans a personal appearance in Boston very soon . . . One of the smartest boys in the business, Allen, will not let Vallee or Goodman take his popularity in New England . . .

Joe Rines thinks his Mayfair engagement will establish himself solidly in Boston territory . . . And this column will not disagree with that . . . The oversigned will take issue with the Hollywood press agents who fortified Rines with a top-piece which he does not need . . . Joe's talent needs no toupee in this opinion.

Tim Murphy's campaign against Sheriff-Elect Dowd has the whole town talking . . .

Pop Valenti's tea garden at the North Station had the largest gross receipts in its history after the jitterbug show . . .

Fourth Consecutive Hit

The verdict is that Deanna Durbin's new picture is a hit—her fourth in a row . . . When Deanna appeared here with Eddie Cantor several years ago at the Keith-Boston Theater, Charles W. Koerner, divisional manager of the Keith circuit here, tried to sell her to pictures . . . She was at the so-called "awkward age" and there were no buyers . . .

The young star is now one of the biggest attractions in the world, and Koerner has the satisfaction of knowing that he has both her word—and her producer's, that no "personal appearance" contract will be signed in Boston until he has the refusal . . .

Victor Leighton, perhaps the best-informed veteran of the legitimate "show-business," and advance man for Eddie Dowling's production "Shadow and Substance," now at the Wilbur, was the booking-chief of the Klaw and Erlanger (later the Erlanger) circuit.

Forty-five years in the theater, Leighton quit when Erlanger died and the theatrical dynasty, which once was known as "The Syndicate" (and was as close to a monopoly for years and years), crumbled.

Victor is the best source for show business . . . He fished Belgrade Lake in Maine with President Grover Cleveland . . . In 1934 he converted a trailer into a house-car and hitted a fishing expedition all over the country . . . It ended recently when he reappeared in New York, and was hired at once by Producer Dowling . . .

He says the finest trout fishing in America may be enjoyed at Creede, Colorado . . . The best steelhead fishing is in Rogue River, Oregon . . . And the least-known wilderness in the country is a huge section of Idaho . . .

Plan State 40-Hour Week

By JOHN W. ENGLISH

With the federal Wages and Hours Act continues to be one of the chief subjects of conversation in nearly every labor gathering of the Massachusetts Federation of Labor and plans are being laid at a state wages and hours bill at the coming session of the legislature which will be a test of the federal act as it is now constituted.

The opposite of Massachusetts labor officials will be a 40 hour week, and a minimum wage of 40 cents an hour, according to Kenneth I. Taylor, secretary-treasurer and legislative agent of the State Federation.

"We will also endeavor to set the age when children may be gainfully employed at 16 years instead of 14 as under the federal act," said Taylor.

"The present federal wages and hours bill is unsatisfactory, but it was the best that labor could obtain because of the opposition of the south.

"The federal wages and hours act will have little effect in Massachusetts as our labor laws are of a high standard.

"Although it has been stated that 80,000 persons will lose their jobs under the federal wages and hours act, very few, if any of that number, live in Massachusetts, as our laws are so good if not better than the federal act."

As yet no agency has been established in Massachusetts to take care of such alleged unemployment, chiefly because of lack of funds.

State Commissioner of Labor and Industries James T. Moriarty expects to be appointed Massachusetts representative of the national wages and hours act board when he goes to Washington to attend a three-day conference Nov. 14.

It has been impossible for Administrator Andrews to set up enforcement machinery according to commissioner Moriarty because of the limit of funds placed at his disposal by Congress.

Commissioner Moriarty's office has been deluged with telephone calls and letters from persons in a position to avail themselves of the new legislation. It is expected that many of the complaints received will be referred to the federal agency, as it will be the enforcement body in Massachusetts. Labor leaders in Massachusetts have been confused by some of the provisions.

Errol Flynn Waikiki Bound After All

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 26—The comedy of Errol's (pardon me, Mr. Shakespeare) was solved today. Flynn is really on the Matsonia en route to Honolulu, and his double, a man named Jackman, and not the wandering actor, was playing tennis at Errol's favorite haunts.

Louella O. Parsons

Lu Daniels, who left yesterday for her European trip, wasn't sure when we talked to her last whether her husband had stepped off the boat in San Francisco or continued his trip. But a cable this afternoon assured her that he would arrive in Honolulu today.

Mrs. Flynn believed when we first spoke to her that Errol had gotten off the boat in San Francisco to help a friend of many years standing who was trying to regain his American citizenship. But she leaves for Europe happy now knowing that Errol is in Honolulu today to relax on the sands of Waikiki unless he should decide to go on to Japan or China.

The Scarlett O'Hara search breaks out in a new rash yesterday with Jean Arthur mentioned as the definite "Gone With the Wind" heroine. The story was that Joan had taken extensive tests and she and David Selznick had come to an understanding over the long distance telephone. The contract and our informant will be signed as soon as Selznick returns from Bermuda.

Tracking down what seemed an authentic story we learned that Jean Muir, Hedda Hopper's protege, was chosen by Selznick for the part of Scarlett. Jean is one of the fairest...

Constance Cummings is still out of movies but says she will return to the stage at the appointment of unusual plays. She will have one of the leads in the Torchbearers' the George Kelly play which was such a hit on Broadway 15 years ago. Kelly himself is here trying to get Fredric March and Florence Eldridge to act for November 11 in Santa Barbara.

PARAMOUNT-FENWAY STARS—Ronald Colman and Ellen Drew in a scene from "If I Were King," opening tomorrow at the Paramount and Fenway.

'If I Were King' on Twin Bills

"If I Were King," Producer-Director Frank Lloyd's big production of the new entertainment season, starring Ronald Colman and featuring a cast of thousands headed by Frances Dee, Basil Rathbone, Ellen Drew, Henry Wilcoxon and Alma Lloyd, will be the top of the Paramount and Fenway Theaters new bill starting tomorrow. Sharing screen honors will be "Mystery of Mr. Moto," a brand new mystery thriller in the life of Lloyd's favorite sleuth, starring Peter Lorre.

"If I Were King" heralded as the crowning achievement of Frank Lloyd's prize winning screen productions, is the story of Francois Villon, dashing verse-writing rogue from the gutters of Paris who loved a powerful king saved an empire and lived to make love to a royal princess.

Ronald Colman, as France's great medieval hero whose soul verses won a lady's heart and whose bold courage and diplomacy rallied the mobs of Paris against the enemies of his beloved country; Frances Dee as the lovely princess who inspires the reckless rogue to become a national hero; Basil Rathbone as the crafty, eccentric King Louis XI who trusted his mighty empire to a vagabond, head the cast.

Evelyn Nesbit Old Howard Star

Fascinating Evelyn Nesbit, who is not new to headlines, this week headlines the Old Howard's revue "Cherry Blossoms," with a new song and dance number that is winning her more admirers.

Another popular nightclub favorite of the current show is Sunya Slane, modern dance specialist. There are 60 persons, including a chorus of 30 song-and-dance girls, in the cast.

'Blackbirds' Coming to Majestic

Newest and most ambitious of the series of popular Blackbirds Lew Leslie's production extravaganza will have its first presentation at the Majestic Theater here next, the jet-propelled revue opening Monday evening, November 7. At the end of its two-week engagement here, the show will move on to Broadway.

More than a hundred performers compose the cast of "Blackbirds" which will have 20 new songs and lyrics by Rube Bloom, Jim Mercer, Irving Mills, Sammy Lerner, Vic Mizzy and Irving Taylor. Dialogue by Burt Lewis and dance ensembles by Eugene Von Grona. Mabel A. Buell has designed the settings and the costumes are by Veronica.

The large cast includes Lena Horne, Dewey Markham, Hamtree Harrington, Bobby Evans, Laverne Hines, Kate Hall, Jeanyne Carmoneue, Lorenza Roberson, Norman and Black, "Big Time" Crip, Tapa Miller, Frances Brock, Ralph Brown and Rosetta Crawford. A highlight will be Van Grona's Amazonian Negro Swing Ballet which will be seen for the first time in a big-time extravaganza.

Boston juggernaut saw a "Blackbirds" last in 1934.

All Up for Gala Navy Day at Hub Ya

Preparations for Navy Day Thursday are under way at Charlestown Navy Yard and sailors there get the old U. S. Frigate Constitution ready for the visitors that will board her.

DON'T WASTE MONEY!

The Editor Says:—President Roosevelt is preparing a program of ADEQUATE NATIONAL DEFENSE for submission to Congress, which must be adopted as he says without delay and AT WHATEVER COST IS NECESSARY.

This will not put additional tax burdens on the people if SQUANDERING POLITICIANS are stripped of their authority to waste the nation's money and resources.

Let PATRIOTS and not POLITICIANS direct public spending and the country will gain not only national security but prosperity as well.

THE FLAG SALUTE controversy is revived in South Deerfield, where three children have been dismissed from local public schools because of their alleged refusal to make the required gesture of allegiance to Old Glory.

The children's father is quoted as saying it is wrong to compel the "saluting of objects."

Few people will agree with this contention. Most persons will prefer the sound reasoning of the late Chief Justice Arthur P. Rugg of the Massachusetts Supreme Court.

Announcing a decision upholding the mandatory pledge, the Chief Justice said:

"The salute is a ceremony clearly designated to inculcate patriotism and to instill a recognition of the blessings conferred by orderly government under the Constitution of the State and Nation.

"The study of these instruments is a PROPER SUBJECT FOR INSTRUCTION in the public schools.

"It is plain that the Republic and the State undertake to establish liberty and to provide justice for all within their borders in accordance with standing laws.

"The flag is a SYMBOL of those aims of government.

"It is important for all who attend the public schools TO KNOW these facts and TO APPRECIATE these advantages.

"An understanding of these matters enables citizens to comprehend and to assert their rights and to seek and obtain their safety and happiness."

THE NEW HAIR-DO is more than a surface fashion. It is a state of mind with women. So declared Miss Esther Lyman, brilliant associate editor of Harpers' Bazaar, in an address before the Advertising Club of Boston.

"We are no longer casual, boyish or girlish people with long, flowing locks and flat-heeled shoes," Miss Lyman explained. "We are grown up people, highly cultured adults with a more feminine manner and appearance. It is affecting all our clothes, even our shoes."

Miss Lyman is an authority, and her advice will be seriously followed in New England particularly by manufacturers.

Thanks to the upswept hair-do, comb factories, long dormant, now enjoy prosperity. It is a good example of what Dame Fashion can and will do for other industries.

MENTAL DISEASES are seldom understood by the layman. Only years of study and specialized training can enable a person to cope with the important problem of insanity and its treatment. The ability certainly cannot be conferred on anyone by a political appointment.

For this reason we believe Governor Hurley did not act wisely when he appointed Representatives William A. Brown and Frank Coyne of Boston and Dr. Ray Otis Kelly and Dr. L. V. Briggs of Worcester to the Special Commission on Mental Diseases.

We do not question the administrative or executive talents of either man, or doubt his fitness in other fields.

But we do say the successors to Father Kelly and Doctor Briggs should be as learned as they are in the science of psychiatry.

The Human Side of the News

The Old West Lives Again

By EDWIN C. HILL

Copyright 1938 King Features Syndicate, Inc.

THEY HAVE brought the old West to New York or as much of it as they could salvage from the retreating years.

The hi-yippy-yee of a hard-riding cowboy echoes through Madison Square Garden, in New York, as the annual rodeo turns on its battery of thrills.

Somehow even the modern rodeo brings back to this writer the unforgettable thrills that William F. Cody, "Buffalo Bill," used to jam into his great Wild West Show.

I believe that never a more dramatic one-man tableau was presented on any stage than that of the old scout as he pulled his great horse up on its hind legs, lifted his white sombrero with an imperial gesture and bowed right and left as the spotlight played upon his long, white hair and his silvery moustache and goatee. That was a great outfit, Bill Cody's, back in the Gay Nineties and the early part of this century.

When Buffalo Bill rode down to duel with Yellow Hand, it was not a simulation of combat that we saw. It was the real thing.

WILD STEER THROWS RIDER YONICK.
"Rodeo Turns On Its Battery of Thrills."

I wonder how many of our listeners remember Dr. Carver and the equally famous sharp-shooter, Annie Oakley.

The show always began with a wagon train making its way across the plains. The bright lights of the Garden paled to a simulation of approaching evening. Covered wagons and protecting horsemen circled and formed a barricade against the dread Indian attack.

Suddenly the scouts, stationed on a rise of ground, signal danger. Buffalo Bill rides furiously toward the ridge and the scouts. The camp stirs to swift, disciplined preparation. The women folk are ordered into the covered wagons and told to lie flat out of the way of bullets and arrows.

Now comes the Sioux onrush led by Chief Irontail. Then as the situation looked its blackest came the ringing notes of the bugles of the U. S. Cavalry, the Seventh. And while the spectators cheer wildly, the Indians fly in disorder leaving their dead in the sacred sawdust.

It was a great show indeed, with the U. S. Cavalry, the cowboys, the settlers, the Indians, and finally a flock of bobtail Brahma the real thing standing upright on their galloping ponies.

'Bugs' Baer Says:

SOON BE HALLOWE'EN if the calendar doesn't come a cropper. It's a reminder of the modern improvements in everything. When we were kids the most we could do was put a tick-tack on a window or abduct a one-hinge gate.

NOW LOOK at the fun the kids can have. They can tear down all the aerials in town, sabotage the gasoline pumps and burn the one-car garages. They can saw through the cables of George Washington Bridge, throw rocks at all the windows in Radio City and change all the detour signs in Arkansas.

HALLOWE'EN is malice with a sugar coating. You can get even with all your enemies on that night. For no matter what you do they double-entry it as a childish prank. That's the night we pick out to dress up in tails and throw sneeze powders at the sopranos in the Metropolitan Opera House. It's all in fun.

MALICIOUS mischief, arson and depredation was the keynote of childish capers. There was a time many years ago when we thought it very funny to burn barrels on America's first asphalt streets and to paint green pants on the statue of Audubon. In those days we celebrated Hallowe'en by blacking up like Primrose and Dockstader. Then we sawed the handle off a broom and tired-taped the grip for a firm hold. On the other end of the broomstick we placed a wagon nut stolen from the nearest vehicle. This made a deadly weapon that would raise a lump on your beanster worthy of a separate reading by a phrenologist.

Spanish War Discussed in LETTER TO NEW YORK TIMES

To the Editor of the New York Times:

IT WAS with no little interest that I read the statement by Ephraim Cross in the New York Times of Oct. 15. Dr. Cross appears to be pessimistic about the future of Catholicism in Spain because the sentiment of the church seems to favor the cause of Generalissimo Francisco Franco. He adds that a woman of Catalonia, informed that his Eminence Patrick Cardinal Hayes was praying daily for the triumph of Nationalist Spain, responded with "a gasp of horror."

Dr. Cross does not tell us whether he or his associates or his anonymous witnesses were deeply moved at the failure of the Barcelona authorities to permit the public worship of God according to the rites of the traditional faith of the Spaniard. Nor does he enlighten us as to the feelings of his colleagues when they saw the ruined churches, the desecrated shrines, the gutted seminaries which testify to the activity of the Marxist elements, whose hatred of religion draws its inspiration from Moscow.

Why could not Dr. Cross have allowed himself one sigh for the hundreds of thousands of innocent men, women and children who were murdered in cold blood during the Red Terror in Madrid, Barcelona and Valencia?

There is no mystery about the facts. During the past Summer I visited in Nationalist Spain, following the course of the advance of Generalissimo Franco's troops from Saragossa to the Mediterranean. It is still possible to see the bombs which the Republicans, during the days when they enjoyed supremacy in the air, dropped on the Cathedral of Our Lady of Pilar. And the high altar in the Cathedral of Huesca which was destroyed by a Barcelona bomb. And the cemetery of Huesca which was desecrated by the Leftists.

At Benicassim on the coast, a saintly parish priest, Padre Francisco Vigo, related the two following incidents:

"When the Republicans held this town, two young girls, whose father lay ill, were unable to secure medical attention for him because as a fervent Christian he was hated by the agitators of the village. The man died. His daughters had to dig his grave within the house with their own hands because they knew that revelation of his presence even after death, would have meant their own assassination.

"Two priests, my assistants, were tortured for 25 days before they were dispatched by revolver shots. I could add hundreds of similar events."

AT SARAGOSSA itself I conferred with one of the best-informed members of the British Parliament on the development of the struggle in Spain. He had been in Madrid two years ago when the murder squads were decimating the population of that city. He assured me that in the course of a single night, 1762 citizens were slaughtered.

Perhaps a report of this character would not be received "with wondering eyes and open mouths," but it would elicit grief and sympathy from every right-minded person.

In the hospitals of Nationalist Spain, Republican prisoners receive the most expert medical attention and hospitalization. At Burgos I met a Spanish nurse whose husband had been put to death by the Leftists in Madrid. On five different occasions she had donated her blood for transfusions to be administered to wounded Republicans. Her generosity was prompted by motives of religion and patriotism.

General Franco, I am prepared to repeat without apologies, is the highest type of Christian gentleman, and his friends inside and outside of Spain will continue to pray for his success not only in war but in the much more difficult task of reconstruction.

JOSEPH F. THORNING,
Emmitsburg, Md., Oct. 15, 1938.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

THE GARDEN is a shaggy tangle now. Nothing orderly anymore, nothing unscarred. All the small, sharp prettiness of Spring gone, the fat lushness of Summer.

Now you see openly the mark of all the days rough wind and sun, and times when everything lay drowned in fog. Even the mark of lonely waiting nights. It's all there now. Not covered up or tied back any more. And yet—it's not like something finished. Rather like something that at last has come complete . . like some fine face that's dared to walk with life.

I wonder why they think an Autumn garden's dead?

The iris blades are shafts of tarnished gold, the brier stems resin-wrought in burnished bronze with scarlet pods that shine like lacquered wood. The maple leaves tattered crimson silk . . The whole place drips with color . . BUT EACH MORNING THERE'S A FILM LIKE SILVER LACE OF COBWEBS STRUNG FROM BUSH TO BUSH.

Not many blossoms, but berries everywhere—like gypsy trifles that come when lovelier things are gone. This year was good for berries. Some are deep maroon—dark as blood drops on their glossy stems. And some their tan leaves lined with, gravel, for—one light dull coral. A touch of frost will make them shine like flame . . Against their round, pale leaves snow berries gleam in pearls of waxy light.

EVEN THE RESTING EARTH IS DIFFERENT IN THESE AUTUMN DAYS—PURPLE AS EGGPLANT—DAMPLY RICH AND STILL, AND FRAGRANT, TOO WITH ALL THE CRUMBLED PERFUME OF THE YEAR—POLLEN AND PETAL AROMATIC GUM, DISSOLVED TO DUST BY SUN AND WIND AND RAIN.

THE LIGHT LIES low and thick, a honey-colored glaze in which the garden floats, a blur of rose and jade.

The garden is a shaggy tangle now, yet somehow lovelier than any other time—richer with meaning. Each day the mystery deepens like a spell. Almost, one hears low laughter . . . catches faint, sweet calls . . . feels trailing fingers clutch as one goes by.

Old age, I think, should come to us like this. Not hated, dreaded, like an ugly face. But like a lovely lighting-ash relaxed. There's so much more in the Dark End and Blossomtime . . Summer . . petty spring. The best comes the grander time of year.

To show at last—! That we've won from life . . . wearing our wrinkles like a crown of peace. To cast aside all pretense and glitter, to feel now varied tempo of the blood . . the secret whispers which pass like a sigh . . the call that beats like shattered words, from out dead lives . . . the passion that we dared not show, untamed. To be, at last, our own red glowing selves.

I WONDER WHY WE THINK AN AUTUMN GARDEN'S DEAD.

I WONDER WHY WE SHRINK FROM AGE WITH DREAD.

PENMANSHIP PECULIARITIES REVEAL CHARACTER AND PERSONALITY

Helenka, Society Handwriting Analyst, Reads Signature of Miriam Winslow, Creative Dancer

Girl About Town by Marguerite Downey

BECAUSE business men's signatures intrigued her, Helenka abandoned her secretarial career to become a handwriting analyst. That was more than six years ago and meanwhile she's read everyone from Leopold Stokowski to Ina Claire. At present she's concentrating on social register patrons of the Balinese Room.

Debs usually write in a fine, vertical, typical private school hand. To Helenka that's a sure indication of self-centeredness which, if properly diverted, can make them excellent mothers and ideal wives. State Streeters' initials are caricatures of shrewd cautious natures with a terrific amount of ego.

At times analysis can become a chore—prying into other lives. Mrs. F. Haven Clark has an unassuming nature but loves flamboyant presentation about her. Miriam Winslow's penmanship is amazingly similar to Leopold Stokowski's with its Parisian-shaped capitals, while Ginny Phelan's hand shows a tremendous capacity for doing good.

Because one's mind controls his writing, Helenka believes handwriting analysis more accurate than palmistry. Reading anybody's signature from left to right she can tell their moments from early youth and foretell the next six months. Dotted i's and crossed t's are Q's. They can tattle an embarrassing tale.

ADVERTISING in a big way is the only way to describe those ad-dragging planes that dip and spin over the Harvard Stadium Saturday afternoon.

The letters themselves are nine feet high, the trailer measures about 300 feet and weighs about 300 pounds. It takes 45 minutes for each whirl, that includes a trip across downtown Boston and three spins above the Stadium. Lead poles where the signs are attached, are usually set at a 45-degree angle to make sure that earthbound crowds get a good look.

DANIEL WALLINGFORD of Marlborough street has taken a poke at Boston provincialism with his recently published map of Bostonians' idea of the United States.

New England sprawls over a third of the surface. New York's boroughs are lumped beyond Chicago. The adjacent states are hardly more than a blur. And with the comment that Western states are reported to have advanced 1 ray in the opening of the Panama Canal, it's a fair caricature of our family geographical knowledge.

WHILE SATURDAY'S millions work themselves into a frenzy yelping for a win, it's interesting to watch nervous gestures of coaches.

Dick Harlow always sits with a tray of water glasses behind him. He drinks as many as sixteen glasses during the game and smokes several cigars. Pat Harley lounges to ham cigarette smokers and Red Blaik wears out practically a pair of trousers a game so fidgety is he on the bench.

New York Cavalcade by Louis Sobol

THE AVERAGE New Yorker, I have concluded, knows as much about his city as his mind retains from reading newspaper features, magazine pieces and occasional fragments in columns like this. I mean the average New Yorker doesn't go out of his way to visit the sights of his city. Quentin Reynolds has never been inside the Metropolitan Museum of Art and Sherman Billingsley has never set foot inside Poe's cottage, uptown.

AS PART of my business, I have inspected both the Central Park and Bronx Zoos, but I can name you half a hundred average New Yorkers among the people I know who have never been to either.

For that matter, I have never set foot near wheel of cat into Prospect Park in Brooklyn, and believe it or not, Senor Macoco, who is an average New Yorker when he is not an average Argentinean, has never been to Coney Island.

TRINITY CHURCH, Corner Fulton St. Marks in the Bowery where Peter Stuyvesant has been dead a good many years, the ancient Hebrew graveyard on 21st street Battery Park, old cherished Pearl street where at No. 20 once stood the first wooden Dutch church and where at 119 lived, or is said to have lived—Captain Kidd and later Morgan, who tried to assassinate Napoleon; historic Bowling Green, the old Treasury Building, the Jumel house, built by Rodger Morris in 1765 and later used as headquarters by Washington and Sts. later as a home by Mrs Jumel who married and divorced Aaron Burr—these and hundreds of others of landmarks of this vast Manhattan are unknown to thousands of average New Yorkers or if known only because they have read about them.

I HAVE BEEN GIVEN to understand by a slick young gentleman that he no longer tries to sell the Brooklyn Bridge, nor the Empire State to unsuspecting young immigrants. He has more success to-day selling the information booth in Grand Central as a real estate.

HE WAS BEING facetious, of course, for no amount of petty swindling is a decent act these days. The fact is we're all [illegible] and the average American citizen even believes [illegible] himself.

Jitter Champions In Dream Heaven

Champ Jitterbugs Jimmy and Margie Grinley pinched themselves, just from habit, when they woke up today in their West Newton home.

Because tonight they make their bow at the Club Mayfair, at a salary of $350 for the week they'll be appearing there.

And Jimmie and Margie still couldn't believe today that they weren't dreaming.

That was why they pinched themselves again, just as they had been doing since they won the Boston Evening American's Fall Frolics jitterbug contest at Boston Garden.

Said red-headed Jimmy, with an infectious grin of his:

"Can you imagine getting paid for dancing to swing music? That's the part of all this that sounds completely screwy.

"I feel like a kid being bribed to eat ice-cream. And I guess Margie thinks yet we must be dreaming it all."

Jimmy said his sore feet were the only worry, today. He blistered a couple of toes in the Boston Evening American jitterbug contest preliminaries at Nuttings-on-the-Charles, back in September.

From then until he and Margie strutted their stuff at the Garden Monday night, he danced so much the tender spots didn't have a chance to heal.

But Jimmy explained today:

"I lived for fun—and maybe for fame—at the Garden with sore dogs, so I guess I can grin and bear it at the Mayfair for my share of the salary."

Appearing with Jimmy and Margie Grinley tonight will be the two jitterbug couples who won second and third prize in the Boston Evening American's Fall Frolics contest.

They are Mae and Frank Vasott of Central Falls, R. I., and Helen Josie and Paul Hegan of Revere.

All three couples, in addition to their Mayfair dancing, will do nightly turns at the RKO-Boston Theater.

After that, Broadway will beckon to them.

And maybe Hollywood. Who knows?

Red-headed Margie Grinley said today:

"You can have vanilla. I'll take swing."

MEN LOVE GIRLS WITH PEP

If you are peppy and full of fun, men will flock to you to dances and parties.

BUT if you are prim, bottom and tired, men won't be interested. Men don't like "quiet" girls. When they go to parties they want girls along who are full of pep.

So in case you need a good general restorative, remember that for 3 generations one woman has used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It helps to build up more general resistance and "tone aids" to give you more pep and lessen distress from female functional disorders.

Don't find Pinkham's Compound WELL WORTH TRYING!

For Quick Cough Relief, Mix This at Home

Saves You Much Money, and It's So Easily Mixed.

Here's an old home remedy your mother used for coughs—it is still one of the best known and most reliable, for coughs due to throat irritations. Once tried you'll always use it.

It's so simple. Make a syrup by stirring 2 cups granulated sugar in 1 cup water a few moments until dissolved. No cooking needed—a child could do it.

Now put 2½ ounces of Pinex into a pint bottle and add your syrup. This gives you a full pint of actually truly splendid cough medicine, and gives you about four times as much for your money. It keeps perfectly, tastes fine, and lasts a family a long time.

And you'll say it's really amazing, for quick action. You can feel it take hold instantly. It loosens tight, raw, irritated membranes and helps clear the air passages. You might wonder, at any price, can it be worth so much?

Pinex is a compound containing Norway Pine and potent guaiacol, in concentrated form, well known for its prompt action on throat and bronchial membranes. Money refunded if it doesn't please you in every way.

Airplane Display At Metropolitan

In conjunction with the opening of "Men With Wings," the management of the Metropolitan Theater announces that they have arranged an unusual and interesting display of airplane models to be featured all week in the grand lounge.

The models, which illustrate the progress of aviation from the day of the Wright brothers right down to the present time, are part of a special collection of Jesse Davidson of New York City, well-known aviation expert. Mr. Davidson will be in attendance after each showing of the feature picture to answer questions with reference to his models.

Wait, Mother—Ask Your Doctor First

Never Give Your Children Unknown "Bargain" Remedies To Take—Unless You Ask Your Doctor. Unknowingly You May Be Risking Their Health —Just To Save A Few Pennies

THE LIFE OF A CHILD is too precious for experiment. So—Ask your doctor before you give any remedy you don't know all about.

And when giving the common children's remedy, milk of magnesia, always ask for "Phillips'" Milk of Magnesia.

Because for three generations Phillips' has been favored by many physicians as a standard, reliable and proved preparation — marvelously gentle for youngsters.

Many children like Phillips' in the newer form — tiny peppermint-flavored tablets that chew like candy. Each tablet contains the equivalent of one teaspoonful of the liquid Phillips,' and a big box costs but 25¢ at your drug store.

A bottle of Phillips' liquid Milk of Magnesia costs but 25¢. So—anyone can afford the genuine. Careful mothers ask for it by its full name "Phillips' Milk of Magnesia."

Should Parent Interfere With Infatuation?

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

My daughter graduated from one of the leading women's colleges last June. She is very pretty and intelligent, but seems bent on ruining her life by being futile in the hands of a shameless man of 34. I've never seen such a case of infatuation. He's at the house morning, noon and night. Yet he never says anything about marriage, and has to allow his wife a very substantial sum for the support of their three children.

Should I leave my daughter to work out her own salvation? I've tried desperately to interfere, with without success.

UNHAPPY MOTHER

Perhaps you've tried too hard to interfere, which so often adds the piece of resistance to a love affair. I'm afraid there's nothing to do but let your daughter work out her own salvation. Women often lose their power when they become a steady fact.

MOTHER - DAUGHTER XMAS CARDS

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

My father passed away several months ago. I want to send Christmas cards to my friends, but I don't know whether I should include my mother's name or not. We usually sign the cards "Mother and Daughter." Should I sign the cards "Mother and Daughter" or "Mary Doe and Daughter?" D.

You write very well, so I'm sure your suggestion to send Christmas cards to your friends is a good one. I would be pleased to have your name on the card.

It is not the custom of a lady to write her husband's name on the card, and she would write your own name on the card since there is something so ugly in the handwriting of a friend. But if your mother finds it burdensome to do this you might properly sign the cards as you suggest. . . . Mary Lawton and I approach.

GET THE MOST out of this dancing winter by owning, and immediately, one of the new skater's skirts. There's nothing that's more fun in which to dance, whether you sway to a rhumba, waltz with your heart in Vienna, or do a neat shag. This is a particularly good example, done in velvet, because it has a hint of the gathered in front fullness you're going to hear so much about, under the various names of angel robe, monastic and Algerian. It's prophetic. —ANNICE BRINK.

[illegible] we had the pleasure of attending the [illegible] Convention held here in Boston. We've been meaning to tell you something about our [illegible] visit.

A very attractive and capable young lady from the Home Service Kitchen of a well known shortening company gave a most interesting demonstration and discussion of the cooking of seafood.

She gave such grand recipes that we are taking the liberty of passing them along to our readers.

Here they are just as they were given to the audience and we hope they become favorites with the whole family.

The Deviled Oysters were suggested for a Sunday-night supper or for late evening refreshments accompanied by cole slaw, hot rolls and coffee.

Melt 2 tablespoons vegetable shortening in top of double boiler, add flour and blend well.

Add milk gradually, stirring constantly and continue stirring and cooking until thickened.

Add cheese, stirring until cheese is melted and blended.

Let boil for 3 minutes in top of double boiler, to which has been added 1 tablespoon vinegar and a bit of bay leaf.

Melt remaining 2 tablespoons of vegetable shortening in frying pan. Add onions and cook until yellow.

Spread onions in baking dish greased with Spry. Arrange halibut on onions. Sprinkle with salt and paprika. Pour cheese sauce over halibut. Bake in hot oven 425 deg. F. 20 minutes, or until halibut is browned. Serves 6.

YOU CAN BE BEAUTIFUL

Throat-Firming Cream At Short-Time Special

By ARLINE GOULD

IF YOUR throat fails you . . . and we don't mean laryngitis . . . and you wring your hands and wonder why you never appreciated its columnar loveliness before it started to crepe and wrinkle . . . there is something you can do about it.

Fatter purses than yours have been buying a marvelous enriching throat cream . . . a jar not too big but chock full of youthgiving elements that only a withering throat could appreciate . . . and they the fat purses, have disgorged something over three dollars in haste and glee. For it was more than worth it. Many a woman whose unrelenting grip on her youthful beauty has her friends jittering with undisguised jealousy uses its balsam richness every night of her life, without fail.

For five days, for the only time the whole year through, the self-same jar is to be had for one dollar. Because the day of realization of your need is probably hovering over you if you're an hour over twenty-five . . . we would feel very badly about it, if your purse is lean should you realize the day after the sale is over that this is a cosmetic you need even more than the powder you dot on your nose . . . So take stock on your throat and be on hand next Friday morning when the special goes into effect.

This cream, unique in its way because it does its magic in fifteen minutes and you positively don't have to go to bed with that sticky stuff on, is made of lotus oils and firming agents.

To learn about this throat firming cream special come duke for an over three-dollars and phone Arline Gould, LIBerty 4000, week days until five, or write her at the Boston American inclosing a stamped, self addressed envelope.

"The DOCTOR" by MARY ROBERTS RINEHART

Which Comes First— Family or Profession?

What Has Happened:

It was two weeks since Dr. Chris Arden completed his internship and started a practice of his own. His first mistake was to rent an office and rooms from the shiftless Walters family but he had felt sorry for mild, inefficient Henry Walters and his drab, patient wife, Lily. They obviously needed the money.

It was another deal not to his liking when he thought of their lazy daughter, Katie, and never do-well son, Dick. It was Sunday morning and Chris decided the time was to have it out with a manly step. So, on looking at him could Lily that Lucy was a new doctor ready to serve a city which was seemingly unaware of his existence.

But Chris does have one patient that morning. Beverly Lewis, the wife of wealthy Ted Lewis, her terrier and apologizing maid, Lily, to remove a bone from the dog's throat. She invites Chris to call on her children as soon as he can get a fee.

Now Continue:

CHAPTER THREE

"Thank," Beverly Lewis said coldly. "I wouldn't dream of imposing on a stranger," and, head out, the dog at her heels, slammed the door behind her.

"Now why did I say that?" Chris thought as he went back to straighten his office. "After all, she's a girl and a nice one, stubborn, too."

He smiled at the memory of that exit of hers, but he was not too comfortable.

Out of sheer blazing pride he had affronted her, and there was less than his usual truculence in his carriage as he sought out Lily Walters in the back of the house.

But once more Lily defeated him by her very weakness and ineptitude.

I'm sorry about the bowels business. I was washing some when you rang.

Well, just don't let it happen again.

He looked at her. Here at last, he knew after God knew what tragedy of living, she had found sanctuary for herself and her family. His success would be hers, his failure hers, also.

Henry tinkering in a back shed with his useless inventions; Lily boarding billiard parlors instead of looking for work, even Katie, who had been sent to the high school and evening boys with a distaste which concealed a keen interest all of them were hung around his neck by that sheer necessity of Lily's. He leaned over and patted her shoulder.

Cheer up," he said. "It's only a matter of time, you know. We'll carry on all right."

But she hardly heard him. There was a sound of a door unlocking overhead and then Dick's previous voice.

Hey, Mom! How about some coffee?

Chris went back into the front hall, carefully stepped over the dog in front of the mirror, picked up his black bag and sauntered out on his daily round, this time for the first day.

But before he started he looked about and saw, reluctantly, a cut on his handkerchief and tardily and expertly packed his skin.

A CHANGING WORLD

It wasn't much of a practice, but it was a beginning. He was a doctor now, and Lily was his for the taking. Even Ted Lewis, with his power, would have to call him. Chris was on the world. He was a doctor now, and who was Beverly Lewis to be the [illegible] building a memorial to himself or having favors from a God he had every reason to fear.

Lewis or no Lewis, however, it was still the hospital. It welcomed to its doors all who needed it, sinners and saints, rich and poor, and for a time they ceased to be either one or the other, and were reduced to the common level of the beds on which they lay.

It changed with time, of course. The nurses no longer swept the floors with their long hair skirts; rubber soles had taken the place of the bandages worn over their shoes by the night workers.

There were diet kitchens and dietitians now, and evening classes had superseded evening prayers.

Perhaps only Miss Nettie Simpson, the head of the training school, felt these changes or missed the graces.

A FOSTER MOTHER

She had given her life to her work, and she was still working, tutting her school with a rod of iron, moving from ward to ward, from bed to bed; and each night asking for and receiving strength for the day to come.

But now she was old. Occasionally at the annual meeting, when she had made her report and departed, there was quiet talk of replacing Nettie.

But the board temporized and compromised. Her assistant was the news hound, busk and modern. They let it go at that.

But Miss Simpson knew. Sometimes, lying in her quiet office, she felt sudden [illegible]

"Fatal." I had a patient this morning."

"A tragedy?"

"Very [illegible]

sobered. A [illegible]

form they were an alien [illegible]

Now Nettie hardly knew the place with new machinery coming, carpet, linoleum and paint.

Even the old hustle and bustle were gone. At first it was a welcome change, a blessed relief from noise and [illegible]

For good or bad the thing was done like a bone [illegible] Like taking a watch to be mended.

Yet she knew them all, these hospital doctors, knew the able ones and the [illegible] ous and the [illegible] too their temperaments and [illegible] even their jealousies. For me to me was a jealous [illegible]

She had [illegible] a few calls for only a handful [illegible] loving [illegible] that one was Chris Arden.

His going had been a blow to her, although she had never acknowledged it even to herself.

And on Sunday mornings ever since she had waited for him in her best silk dress and [illegible]

So Chris found her that morning, a little rigid old lady in a black gown, when, having rapped at her door he opened it and entered.

"Is her majesty receiving?" he inquired.

"IT WAS A DOG!"

She always [illegible] Come in and sit down. Or don't you [illegible] want to [illegible] at the hospital without [illegible] Well, Christopher, what [illegible]

It was the first time she had called him by [illegible] name, and he felt sudden [illegible]

"Fatal. I had a patient this morning."

"A tragedy?"

"Very [illegible]

sobered. A [illegible]

What are you talking about?"

It was a dog, he told her grinning. "Quite a good dog. I [illegible] he [illegible] a young man whose name I [illegible] Beverly Lewis and who we [illegible] a state of fury because I wouldn't let her in to me."

"Not me, Beverly! It doesn't sound like her somehow. What did you do?"

"I didn't know. Probably I gave her [illegible] Was that [illegible] Was [illegible] casual. I knew she was dash and [illegible] and get [illegible] a temper but that's about [illegible]

That's about all you need to know about any young woman," she said dryly. "When [illegible] Stebbins [illegible] with a [illegible] that [illegible] she [illegible] her mother's eyes and her father's chin and I gather she's very popular in [illegible] whatever that may be."

"Whatever it means! I wouldn't dare to [illegible] my eyes to such a use. In fact I don't look [illegible] above the cuticle three [illegible]

He was [illegible] but now she [illegible] at [illegible] For all he [illegible] he looked tired [illegible] and his cheerfulness was [illegible]

"[illegible] patient, Chris, she [illegible]

I have plenty of that. It's a [illegible] I have got."

"Will [illegible] you comfortably set [illegible]

I am settled. That is I have [illegible] a place [illegible] I sold [illegible] I'm [illegible] I'm [illegible]

HE MAKES LENDING A FRIENDLY BUSINESS

The Manager of the Treasurer's Office MR. I. R. SAVAGE

Helps all kinds of people raise money to pay bills—quickly

● Mornings will be more cheerful about the [illegible] If you'll go a long way before you'll find a chap more friendly, pleasant and understanding.

He's typical of the men who manage the neighborhood offices of the Personal Finance Company—which helps explain why 77,000 people borrowed money from us last year, making us the choice of America's most popular loan company!

If you need from $25 to $300, he'll be glad to help you get it. Won't ask tiresome questions, either—or bore you with needless red tape. Just a few necessary facts, and as soon as your application is approved, he'll have your money ready.

There's a man just like him at each of our 14 local offices, listed below. If you need money, stop by! You don't have to ask a friend to sign your note, nor do you have to own real estate or an automobile. You can get your loan quickly—and quietly!

IN THE

STOCK MARKET

Stock prices moved lower today under the leadership of the steel group. Volume was quite heavy at times as most prices dipped from 1 to around 2 points. There were a few wider declines.

10-11. Stock prices worked lower at the opening in fairly active dealings. A few specialties backed the sellers but they accomplished little of moment. Packard suddenly came to life and huge blocks of stock changed hands as it moved ¾ to 4. Some string a total of 54,000 shares appeared on the tape. Some of the big motors dropped easily. Chrysler gave up a point and General Motors was a couple. Steels were weak but not by much more than fractions. However they were enough to make gainers won nursing the decline before long. We were told that apparently liquidation was largely finished. Standard Oil (Indiana) was down 1 point. Texas Corp. 1¼.

11-12. Stock prices showed much resistance to selling pressure during the past hour. Some of the specialties were in demand and a number of issues were up fractions to around a point. Prices were still irregular in the industrials but the rails showed a firmer tone. Trading continued quite slow. Wall Street generally was inclined to look for a further decline before the end of the week. Some quarters were confident that the market would hold around present levels. However, there were a number who were looking for a further recession. Most public utilities were steady. Standard Oil (Indiana) was down 1 point. Texas Corp. 1¼.

12-1. A good deal of the selling pressure was relieved during the noon hour. While there was no rush to buy stocks, offerings were not pressing and prices showed a firmer tone. The market was quiet. Trading was quite slow. Standard Oil (Indiana) was down 1 point. Texas Corp. 1¼.

1-2. Interest in the stock market has been at a low ebb today. Trading was quiet and prices were irregular. Steels were weak and motors were heavy. Rails showed a firmer tone. Standard Oil (Indiana) was down 1 point. Texas Corp. 1¼.

2-3. The market was quiet and prices were irregular. Steels were weak and motors were heavy. Rails showed a firmer tone. Standard Oil (Indiana) was down 1 point. Texas Corp. 1¼.

The True Family Laxative and Round Worm Expeller

For 88 years watchful mothers have given their children Dr. True's Elixir as a laxative and round worm expeller. The following symptoms may indicate the presence of these harmful human parasites: offensive breath, poor appetite, nausea, nervousness, grinding of teeth, tossing in sleep, constipation, etc.

FOR YOUNG AND OLD AT DRUGGISTS

Austen Lake:

Never-Never Era; Vale; Error; Anchored Angus

WHEN GENE TUNNEY, THE OLD fist fighter, delivered his erudite discussion before Stamford's Thanatopsis Club recently he spoke on the Golden Age. From meager reports it was not clear whether he referred to the Golden Age of Pericles or the Golden Age of sport, which was supposed to exist in the late '20s. That was Gene's "Age."

AUSTIN LAKE

Well then, in a current issue of a National weekly Pudge Heffelfinger, the Old Yale Blue, takes for his title "The Golden Age of Football," which he locates in the "not so gay 'nineties." That was Pudge's "Age."

And Connie Mack, before the Philadelphia Sportsman's Club last week, mentioned the Golden age of baseball as being in the days before the rabbit ball was inserted to create the period of homerun might. And that, my friends, was Connie's "Age."

The Golden ages in sport appear to be a never-never era when [illegible] was gay and bubbling. For an era is only golden in retrospect, much as a setting sun tips the peaks of distant hills with red rays. Ballard of Error

TWO REGRETTABLE THINGS HAPPENED during the last week to point the finger at football officiating. One was the death from heart failure of Harris Moriarty, Southern umpire of the N. Y. U.-North Carolina game. Commentators wondered why it was that a man with cardiac flutters would be permitted to do such strenuous work. The other was the mistaken "down" in the Notre Dame-Carnegie Tech, by Referee John Getchell, a Western Conference man. The error cost Carnegie the ball game.

Tom Joins Elders' Retreat

THE LAST TWELVE MONTHS HAVE thinned the ranks of Boston's older sport figures. George V. Brown has gone. Irving Wright has passed. Father Bill Cuddy and Alex McLean have died. Fay Vosburgh, his peculiar niche in the Hall of Sport, kindly philosopher full of wisdom and years. And now it is the turn of Tom Scanlon, coach of Brighton high and dean of local school football teachers. Eighteen classes of Brighton football athletes, some kids with pinfuzz chins and some paunchy and bald oldsters, will mourn Tom's passing.

Scanlon, in his middle fifties, sustained a fatal embolism from a leg injury received during practice, an accident that should give many another coach pause before taking part in play with youths half their age. Lou Little learned his lesson at Columbia when he had a vertebra in his neck fractured and later a bursitis of the hip. T. A. D. Jones had his leg broken as a first year coach at Exeter. The list of such coaching casualties is long.

KNOWING FROM EXPERIENCE the nervous temperament of Captain Angus Walters, Nova Scotian skipper of the fisherman, Bluenose, his boat's gasoline motor is being kept under guard on a Boston pier and half of his money guarantee is being kept for later payment. Tufts Eleven Intact For Brown Saturday

By MURRAY KRAMER

Coach Lew Mary is pleased that he has the best possible combination at the end that started the Worcester game Coach Lew Mary is planning to use the same combination next Saturday.

The backfield of Art Griffin, Bob Patterson, Art Powell and Jack Webber came out injury under the guidance of Lew and Coach Dick Hall.

Patterson, a junior, has been the find of the season. He was rushed into action when Charles was hurt in the Worcester game and he has responded with a great brand of football.

Webber, at the other end, is going to be a great player for Tufts in the next few years. He was rushed into action when Charles was hurt in the Worcester game and he has responded with a great brand of football.

Powell, a senior, has been the find of the season. He was rushed into action when Charles was hurt in the Worcester game and he has responded with a great brand of football.

Griffin, a senior, has been the find of the season. He was rushed into action when Charles was hurt in the Worcester game and he has responded with a great brand of football.

Just what this team will do against the best Brown team in six years is a question.

While this eleven has plenty of power, it is somewhat lacking in experience, especially in the backfield. Against the Jumbo line that the Bruins will face next Saturday, the Tufts backfield will have a hard time getting started.

On paper Tufts seems better than it is, but when Lew Mary is behind the team, Tufts is a fighting club and if Lew McLaughlin hopes to get by with passes, the Jumbos still seeking their first victory are going to make things interesting for a while.

For a team that was massacred by Army last week and faces a team as tough in Western Reserve next Saturday, the spirit on the Boston University Club is remarkable.

Coach Pat Hanley has thrown almost every position open and instead of the regulars resenting the move, they are battling all the harder to get their jobs back.

It now appears that most of them are going to get another chance to redeem themselves next Saturday at Cleveland.

It is certain, though, that Joe Gianotti will start in place of "Red" Kopecky at left tackle and that Ralph Salvati will spell Russ Lawry at fullback.

Salvati, incidentally who was a freshman guard last fall, looms as real comer. He has size and speed. With a little more finesse and experience, he should develop into an other Famiglietti.

Caseys Show Class in Fast Workouts

The wrestling Caseys threw mighty mats of brawn and muscle all over the floor last night in Buckley's gymnasium and at the end of it announced they are ready to take on and beat the world put alone their opponents in Paul Bowser tournament both tonight and tomorrow night at the Garden.

The three of them, including Steve, the world's champion, Jim and Tom, fresh from their home land County Kerry Ireland, heaved around training mates like sacks of oats pulled and tugged on weights and in general had a nice limbering up session to lose their sea legs.

Steve was spokesman for the boys and said he thought they'd turn out to be just as much a success in the wrestling game as he has been.

"Look at them," proudly exclaimed the Crusher. "Look at the muscles on the boys. You're going to hear from the Caseys from now on."

Tomorrow, in the Eddie Hurley Memorial tournament Steve makes his first title defense of the year against The Sheik, black-bearded gent of mystery from Arabia.

Jim Casey makes his American debut against Babe Zaharias, the rough and tough mid-westerner and this one likewise looks like a big mouthful for the Irishman to chew.

Renovated Olympics Face Bruins

New England hockey fans will get their first opportunity Sunday night to watch the rival stand-outs of the Boston Garden war on the Boston Olympics in the National A. A. U. tournament to be held in the Garden during the 1938-39 season of Hub sports.

The Olympics have had days workouts at the Arena since November and the amateur champs have lost no time in getting down to business.

Coach Hap Harrington was agreeably surprised when he saw reports for the first practice session Tuesday night and found that every one of the 1937-38 squad was in good condition.

June Stubbs, Old Faithful regular on the blue and red defense and when the star defenseman of the Olympics stepped on the scales he tipped the beam at 165, hard as a nail.

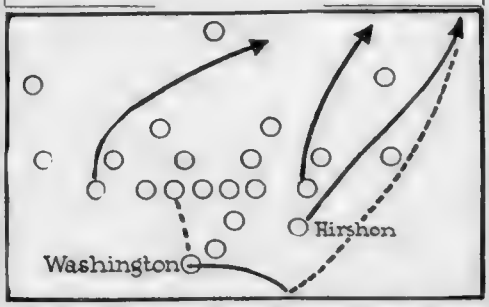
The Olympic coach has a squad of about fifty candidates trying for the team. There are about ten sets of forwards, seven sets of defense men and six net minders. All of last year's color bearers in the Provincial League are back. Spain, Guibord, Harris, Lax, Junie Allen, Bob Jeremiah, Dewey, Ford, Desrosiers, Costello, Stubbs, Art Smith, Splaine, Roberts, Lynch with Tom Moon and Ted Frazier, last season's goalies.

Weill in Wrong With Gotham Board

NEW YORK, Oct. 26 (AP) — Al Weill, the round man who manages Lou Ambers and Joey Archibald, is in the doghouse again with the New York State Athletic Commission.

It seems Al was bellowing advice to Joey when his man won the featherweight title last week and the commission didn't like it.

Famous Grid Plays



This U. C. L. A. pass from Kenny Washington to Harold Hirshon was good for 60 yards and a touchdown against Southern California. The play started like an end run. The Bruin right end went down field, while Washington faked a run and took up much time to allow receiver to get down under pass.

Crimson-Tiger Tilt Tossup

In the mid-week wagering, Harvard is an even-money shot to gain its first victory of the season at the expense of the Princeton Tigers on Saturday.

If the price doesn't change before the weekend, it will be the first time since the Brown game that the Crimson hasn't been the underdog stacking a Stadium bet.

After losing unheeded wails from prejudiced Penn rooters by the humiliating Harvard found themselves on the short end of 2 to 1 betting when they faced Cornell, Army and Dartmouth.

As far a comparative records go they should be short-priced favorites over the Tigers from Princeton. Wesleyan and Penn, tied Navy and has been beaten only by Dartmouth.

But the Crimson has displayed marked improvement in every start and just missed upsetting the dope against both Army and Dartmouth.

GREEN BOY PEPPED UP

So the experts figure Capt. Ed Green and his boys are about due to break the spell which has wrecked all of their fine teams' triumph and fall.

The Harvard team members for the same way about it but for a moment are they figuring on a Princeton jinx. The evening over a beefsteak feed for the squad the best team for this season's game of the Three competition.

Coach Harvey Hall has been trying an end-around play in practice this week. It was the first touch drill for the squad in several days. Other plays have been polished up.

Lack of serious injuries means a good lineup for the game. Two of the first team backs, Bill Barnes and Bob Saltonstall, will be in the starting lineup of course.

SAME LINEUP

Tom Lamont, who has been a pain in the neck to the Harvard coaches for almost two years, has developed into a fine end. He has been playing a bang-up game at the left wing position.

Other than the injury to Wes Jamieson for the opening game against the Tigers.

'Curly' Donchin Tops Arena Card

Donchin, Jewish boy from Jersey City, who has been the best heavyweight wrestler to appear in New York in many years, comes here for his first time to meet Ed Strangler Lewis. Mayor Curley and Jack Dempsey will be there to see the match.

Donchin, who is Mayor Mayor and all the N. Y. sport among fans, is a favorite with the fans, and is a favorite with the fans.

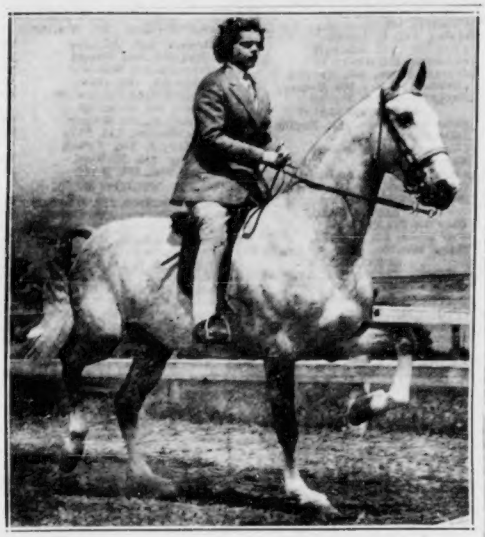
Yankees Ship Hoag, Glenn to Browns



Martha Moore, Worcester, is certain to win the approval of the horse fans when she shows Silverdale at the Boston Horse Show. This beautiful steed has carried off many honors in past exhibitions and, judging from the above stance, is certain to win more ribbons.

Champs Get Hildebrand, Mills

NEW YORK, Oct. 26 (AP)—The world champion New York Yankees today traded Utility Catcher Joe Glenn and Outfielder Myril Hoag to the St. Louis Browns for Pitcher Oral Hildebrand and Outfielder Colonel (Buster) Mills.

It was announced as a straight swap, with no money involved.

The deal, first of a series reported planned by American League clubs to aid the low second-division teams, should strengthen the seventh-place Browns.

Though Hoag and Glenn were used mostly for relief, they played good ball for the champions, who now have an outfield spot open for Newark's surprising Charlie Keller.

This is the line on the quartet:

HILDEBRAND, 31 years old, right-hander, five years with Cleveland, two with St. Louis. Last season Hildebrand was in 23 games, pitching 10 complete games, winning 8, losing 10.

MILLS, 29 years old, right-handed hitter, formerly with St. Louis Cardinals and Boston Red Sox. Last season, Mills was in 123 games, batting .281.

HOAG, 30 years old, right handed hitter, with Yankees seven seasons; in 85 games last season, batting .271.

GLENN, 30 years old, bats right, in 41 games last season, batting .260.

200 Prize Horses In Armory Show

Two hundred prize horses from leading New England, New Jersey and Pennsylvania stables will provide four days of thrilling competition in the famous Boston Horse Show, opening tomorrow evening, in gayly decorated Commonwealth Armory.

This glittering social and sporting event, being staged for the 21th year by Boston's own 110th Cavalry, Massachusetts National Guard, will be the finest ever presented at the Armory.

Evening performances will begin at 7:30, while there will also be Saturday and Sunday matinees, starting at 1.

Eighty events in all will be run off, including regular saddle, hunter and jumper classes, military competition, children's events and special features.

IRISH HUNTERS

The military events will bring together crack horsemen of the Third Cavalry of Fort Ethan Allen, Vt.; Essex Troop horse show team of Newark, N. J.; Pennsylvania Military College of Chester, Pa., and the host, 110th Cavalry Regiment.

Seven Irish hunters entered by Richard Sheehan of County Cork, Ireland, give the show an international flavor. From Vermont will come the saddle stars of Upwey Farm in Woodstock.

New Hampshire has a representative, Louise Stone, of Camp Wabasso, Bradford. Mr. and Mrs. William E. Schlusemeyer of Valley Falls, head the Rhode Island delegation.

Connecticut exhibitors include Mrs. C. P. Cunningham and Miss June Cunningham, of Wethersfield, and Margaret Lorenz, West Hartford. New Jersey has a threat for honors in Mrs. Miriam L. Cohn's Raymar Farm, of West Long Branch. Barbara Parker, from the same place, also is showing.

Casey Brothers Great Athletes ⋮ Jim Almost as Big as Steve

By JACK CONWAY

YOU WILL like Steve Casey's brothers, Jim and Tom, who will wrestle on the same card with the champion at the Eddie Hurley Memorial show at the Garden tomorrow night.

A jitterbug would probably refer to Jim as handsome. Jim is almost as big as Steve, standing six feet in height and weighing 220 pounds. In Ireland, Jim was a star at rowing, track, wrestling and soccer.

Tom is not quite six feet tall and weighs 212 pounds which is light for a Casey. He has done more boxing than he has wrestling.

Jack Sharkey and Johnny Buckley watched Tom with more than usual interest as he worked out at Buckley's Gym with Steve and Jim.

"Tom is fast, and one can see he has had much boxing experience by the way he moves around," said Buckley.

"The Caseys look like a wonderful athletic family," declared Sharkey.

Mr. Boston

The arrival of the Caseys in Boston has put new life into the wrestling game here. A large crowd was at Buckley's Gym to see them work. Every place they went they were greeted by admiring fans.

Steve, the champion, says he weighs 228 pounds, and that he will be at his best when he defends his title against The Sheik at the Garden tomorrow night.

Casey, the most powerful athlete in the world today, has won 250 straight bouts. Steve is only 26 years of age, and so should be able to rule the heavyweight division for several years.

"By the time I begin to slow down," said Steve, "one of my brothers will be ready to step into my spot as champion."

Al McCoy to Box Bob Olin

AL McCOY stopped off in Boston on his way to New York from Montreal.

"Bill Brennan has signed me to box Bob Olin, former world's light heavyweight champion, in a bout in Montreal on November 7," declared McCoy. "I boxed better than I have for some time when I knocked out Shanks, the Canadian champion, in four rounds in Montreal last week. I weighed 181 pounds for the bout, and was very strong, and got much power behind my punches."

McCoy has returned to Lou Stillman's Gym in New York to train for his coming tussle with Olin.

McCoy at the age of 25 is in a good position to go forward in the heavyweight division. Most of the leading heavyweights are veterans, and cannot be expected to keep boxing much longer.

Gunnar Barlund, the Finnish heavyweight, was washed up when stopped by Lou Nova. The latter is an inexperienced youngster, and would probably lose if pitted against McCoy, Farr or Max Baer.

Random Shots at Target

WALTER BROWN, general manager of the Garden, says that the 28,000 persons who attended the Boston Evening American-Sunday Advertiser Battle of Music was one of the most orderly gatherings ever assembled in the huge sports arena . . . A tribute to the crowd itself and to those persons who directed the great show . . . If somebody will now only think up some sports promotions that will attract half as many people as attended the Battle of Music Brown says he will not have a single headache.

Benny Goodman was wonderful, but don't forget also to cast a ballot for Rudy Vallee who proved himself a remarkable entertainer and a magnificent showman . . . While the Battle of Music, aided by the jitterbug contest, was setting a new indoor attendance record for the United States at the Garden the Irish American A. A. was making a new high for its amateur boxing shows at the Arena, while other thousands were attending various movies, the dog track at Revere and other amusements . . . Boston and New England folks are very much sports and amusement minded.

Sergeant Eddie Mack stepped off the Narragansett Park front long enough to give his help to the Eddie Hurley Memorial wrestling show that will be held at the Garden tomorrow night . . . When the mat show is over Mack will then become active in the interest of horse and dog racing in Suffolk County . . . Mack has hundreds of friends, and he is confident they will vote "yes" on both of the racing questions that will be submitted to the voters at the state election.

Charles F. Adams, chairman of the board at Suffolk Downs, has written personal letters to his friends calling their attention to the fact horse racing goes before the voters next month . . . Adams believes that everybody who is interested in horse racing should do what he can to make a "yes" vote certain in view of some opposition to the sport of kings.

Racing is a favorite to win in Suffolk County, while it has made big gains in Hampden and Bristol Counties . . . Dan Gannett looks for a victory for racing in Hampden County, while Jim Egan expects racing to win in Bristol County.

Jobs and revenue for the state are two of the strong arguments being advanced by racing people.

Detroit Wants Travis

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26 (AP)—Trade rumors are buzzing so loud around Griffith Stadium these days that you can hardly hear President Clark Griffith of the Washington Senators say—Cecil Travis.

The talk is:

That the Detroit Tigers are frantically trying to get Travis, the gangling Georgia shortstop, from the Senators either outright or by a player trade.

Griffith won't divulge anything—just shakes his gray head, looks out the window at the gray sky and chews on his cigar. But—

Buddy Lewis, who plays third base for the Senators and who rooms with Davis, dropped some significant information the other day.

Returning from Detroit, where he had gone to buy an automobile, Lewis let it be known to friends that persons close to the Detroit management had talked to him about baseball.

"No," said Buddy, "they don't want me. They want my roommate."

It has been unearthed here by steady digging that Griffith, baseball's Old Fox, might trade his youthful shortstop, who has managed to hit well above .300 ever since he got into the league.

What does Griffith want for Travis?

Pitcher Tommy Bridges, Outfielder George Cullenbine, Rudy York and probably four or five of Hank Greenberg's bats and the Tiger home plate.

The president of the Senators also admitted that he would like to get Pitcher Elden Auker.

Travis came to Washington as a third baseman and was converted into a shortstop by Manager Bucky Harris when Young Buddy Lewis came along to handle the third base duties.

Travis has never been a sensational fielder, but each year he has been among the leading batsmen of the league.

Army Game Tossup, Says Irish Coach

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Oct. 26 (AP)—Head Football Coach Elmer Layden, whose Notre Dame gridiron charges have captured four straight games this season, figures the Irish-Army battle in New York's Yankee Stadium Saturday is "a toss-up."

"This is one series," he said, "in which the underdog is always the favorite. We would much rather go into the Army game the underdog any time than the favorite.

"I envy the Cadets the position (underdog) they've been given by the experts this year."

The game will be the 25th in the Notre Dame-Army series, described by the Irish sports department as the "oldest continuous intersectional rivalry in the record books."

Notre Dame has won 17 times the Cadets, lost five, and tied two.

The Irish will entrain for Rye, N. Y., tomorrow and work out at the Westchester Country Club Friday.

Osmanski Returns For Colgate Game

WORCESTER, Oct. 26 (INS)—Hopes of Holy Cross followers were raised today with revelation that Captain Bill Osmanski has recovered from a leg injury and should be able to start against Colgate.

Coach Eddie Anderson however, has a difficult assignment making a choice between Osmanski and Gus Gerisimas as starting fullback.

Mrs. Moody Ill, Dinner Postponed

A dinner honoring Helen Wills Moody, scheduled for tonight at the Hotel Continental, in Cambridge, has been postponed indefinitely, sponsors here announced today.

Illness of Mrs. Moody caused the postponement, it was announced.

Stiff Workout For Cadet Squad

WEST POINT, N. Y., Oct. 26 (AP)—Aided by brisk "football" weather, Army's team went through a stiff offensive and defensive workout in preparation for Saturday's battle with Notre Dame.

There was no scrimmage, but the Cadets went through their assignments at full speed.

Maine Boys Make Boast Good

RANGELEY, Me., Oct. 26 (AP)—Spurred by a challenge, two Pine Tree Sisters made good the Rangeley region's claim to be a hunter's Paradise.

Two out-of-state hunters, idling away some bad weather hours in a restaurant, became annoyed by natives' boasts of good hunting hereabouts, and suggested some action to prove the claims.

Four hours after leaving, Harold Ferguson and Albert Bouchard, both of Rangeley, returned with a 250-pound bear, shot in adjacent Dallas plantation.

Florida Hits Stride for B. C. Battle

JEAN SHERWOOD KAY DURBROW MORICE SHERWOOD

Put Umph In Hockey

A brand new hockey note is sounded by, left to right, Jean Sherwood, Kay Durbrow and Morice Sherwood of New York. They've formed the Girls' Hockey League.

Sisters Form Hockey Team

NEW YORK, Oct. 26 (AP)—The winter half of the silly season has been inaugurated locally by the more-or-less formation of a girls' ice hockey league, with branches of same to be established in Philadelphia and Atlantc City.

Guiding spirits of the movement are the two large Sherwood sisters, Morice and Jean, who are professional fancy skaters but will be amateur hockey players. They have one full team on the ice now and expect to get together seven more.

BOUCHER TO COACH

"Maybe we'll have to cut down on the fierce body-checking that the men do," Jean said, seriously, "but outside of that there's no reason why girls can't play just as exciting hockey as the men.

"We are all good skaters, so all we have to learn is how to knock the puck around."

That's all they have to learn, and they began learning it while a corps of photographers squatted on the ice and snapped some fetching action shots.

Frank Boucher, veteran star of the New York Rangers, has yielded to pressure and will coach them.

"The popularity of girls' softball games which were introduced at the Garden this year indicates that the public is interested in seeing girl athletes try their hands at other sports," Jean pointed out.

"Fas as I can see, ice hockey is no more dangerous for women than basketball."

Jean may revise her opinion about this later on, for not even football produces quite the resounding whack that is heard when a couple of hockey players collide in full flight.

SKATING COSTUMES

The girls could have learned from the house physician at the Garden that a male hockey player is considered a novice until he has broken at least an arm and a leg and has had his features crocheted with a minimum of 40 stitches.

When he has passed these requirements his teammates gradually quit addressing him as "kid."

The girls are more concerned at the moment in deciding on the right kind of uniforms.

Let's Forget It, Says Carnegie Coach

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 26 (AP)—Bill Kern, Carnegie Tech football coach, who has done a lot of thinking about the "fourth down" break at South Bend Saturday, telegraphed John (Wrong Down) Getchell, referee of the Tech-Notre Dame game:

"Let's forget the whole thing, consensus of our squad and myself."

Getchell took Quarterback Friedlander of the Tech squad a fourth quarter play in midfield was third down for Tech with about a yard to go. Friedlander, after asking three times and being threatened with a penalty for stalling, called for a line play which failed to make first down.

Getchell then gave the ball to Notre Dame, saying he had been mistaken about the downs. The Irish scored the game's lone touchdown four plays later.

Gators Offer Real Test To Eagles

By BILL GRIMES

Since the Florida 'Gators pinned Tampa's ears back last Saturday interest has been renewed in football at Gainsville, Fla. and the Orange and Blue enthusiasts expect their team to make a real victory bid against unbeaten Boston College on Saturday at Fenway Park.

Until the game with Tampa, the 'Gators were NOT doing so well. Coach Josh Cody had fallen from grace because of the setbacks suffered by his charges. But apparently the one-sided win over Tampa relieved the pressure and the Gators are now taking their football seriously.

Coach Cody expects that Capt. Jimmy Oxford, center, will be ready for the Eagles. Capt. Oxford was hurt two weeks ago playing against Miami and didn't see service against Tampa.

Just before the Tampa game, Coach Cody revamped his backfield and as the 'Gators' offense clicked, he will use the same combination on Saturday against Boston College.

MOON MULLINS AT FULL

He will have two seniors in the key positions, Jack Bialock at quarter and Moon Mullins at full. Cody will have Bobby Johnson and Bill Carey, a pair of sophomores, at the halfback positions for the opening kickoff.

On the sidelines, he'll have Pat Reen and Bud Walton, who are playing their third season of varsity football. Reen is rated as the best back on the squad, while Walton is the ace passer.

Bill Kelliher's scouting report of the Florida-Tampa game stated that the 'Gators are dangerous. If keyed to the occasion, Scout Kelliher believes that they'd give any club a battle.

With an unbeaten record to protect, the Eagles cannot afford to risk defeat against Florida. They are working hard and long.

Pete Cignetti reported back and was used at fullback, but Ira Jivilekian and Danny McFadden are positively out of the Florida contest.

OSMANSKI QUESTION MARK

Anxious as he is to beat Andy Kerr's Red Raiders, Coach Dr. Eddie Anderson of Holy Cross will not call upon Bill Osmanski, who came out of the Carnegie Tech game with a badly wrenched leg, to face Colgate at Worcester.

During the Georgia game, Arigo LaTanzi, who has been trying for three years to break into the regular Crusader line up, won his spurs while Gus Gerasimas, a 176-pound fullback, showed to such advantage that Dr. Eddie may start him against Colgate.

Joe Sheeketski of Holy Cross, who has been scouting the Red Raiders, is of the opinion that Andy Kerr has the best club he has ever brought into New England. Colgate has retained its razzle-dazzle aerial game, but this season Kerr also has a powerful running attack.

Lazzeri Headed For Browns?

By the Associated Press

Tony Lazzeri has the itching foot again. Last time he felt like that, the Yankees released him and he landed with the Cubs. Now the gossips say he's headed for the Browns, where he'll be pretty valuable. He knows the league better than Will Harridge.

Ace Parker, the Brooklyn footballer, is right worried over the Duke Blue Devils' attack. "they got a line all right," says the ace—who has shaved that moustache—"but you can't win many games if you't score."

Turk Edwards, that 260-pound tackle of the Washington Redskins, admits his full name is Albert Glen Edwards, but says no one has called him that since he was a sophomore at Washington State . . . Turk says Bronc Nagurski was the hardest running back he ever met—"just like a locomotive"—and Pug Rentner the shiftiest . . . "Pug," says Turk, "had about ten styles of running, all confusing."

Henry Armstrong

Henry Armstrong isn't worried about the "bolo" punch Ceferino Garcia throws. "How's he gonna hit me with it," asked Henry, "when I'll be inside working on 'em?" . . . Gossip on Cauliflower row gives Henry another year on top at the most; the boys think his terrific pace will overtake him then . . . "He'll go back as fast as he came up," said one . . . A Pacific coast correspondent writes in to say that Kenny Washington of U. C. L. A. is just about the best back on thec oast and that Santa Clara has the best team in that secter in eight years.

Lou Little

Lou Little got talking about his star passer Sid Luckman . . . "What do you think of him, Lou?" someone asked . . . "Why I'm very kindly disposed toward him," returned the maestro . . .

Best football story of the week concerns the two old grads arguing over a game on the way from the battle . . .

"Well,' said the first as he pocketed a bet, "we beat you, 19-0, and a very nice victory it was, too" . . . "I don't know," said the second, "it would have been a lot better if you could have played that new halfback of yours . . . what's the matter, couldn't you get him out of his tree?"

Open Game Best for Green

Last week Dartmouth worried about the Harvard attack, particularly passes. In order to offset a defensive weakness against aerials, Earl Blaik benched Colby Howe, shifted Bill Hutchinson to full and sent Joe Cottone to Hutch's berth.

The Indians didn't look like the same team that beat Princeton and Brown when they took on the Crimson. They rushed the ball all over the field, but they didn't click until Howe was sent in.

It will be a mistake, possibly a serious one, for Dartmouth to adopt the same tactics Saturday against Yale in the Bowl as at Cahmbridge, because the Big Green is primarily an offensive club.

If the Big Green opens up, Yale should be swamped, providing of course Coach Blaik elects to send his best offensive combination into the fray. If the Indians play it safe as they did against Harvard, the game will be close, but should go to Dartmouth by at least one touchdown.—GRIMES.

Age Ruling Hits Everett

Coach Dennis Gildea, Everett high school mentor, has a most legitimate squawk to make in the schoolboy football ranks and rates a round of applause for any voice he may give to his feelings.

Daily, Gildea has to watch one of his pupils viewing the Everett high practice sessions due to a ruling that has, outwardly, a most prominent flaw.

This lad, Joe Puglieli, was one of the outstanding tackles on Gildea's eleven last season but this year, because of the 19-year-old ruling, is forced to sit on the sidelines as his mates carry on.

Puglieli is a senior in school and last season was prominently mentioned for all-scholastic rating. During the summer, the Italian lad passed the age limit, forcing him to abandon his high school athletic career.

The Everett gridder traveled through the first three years of high school without missing promotion. This is his fourth term in high school.

WATCHES MATES

His age is above the ruling limit merely because he started school when he was a year older than his classmates.

Every day this season, Puglieli has turned out with the grid squad—but only to watch. One of this boy's chief ambitions—to gain an all-scholastic berth—has been shattered by a ruling that could make exceptions in such cases.

The rule was passed to prevent boys from purposely "repeating" in order to get another season of football.

But this was not the case with Puglieli. He has been an average student taking his subjects in stride, outruled on the football field through no fault of his own.

"This is an injustice to the boy," said Coach Gildea, "and there is nothing I can do about it.

"It is truly a sad sight to see the boy—who has the makings of an All-Scholastic tackle—sitting on the bench every day watching his pals."

More than one lad has felt the same law clamp down on his athletic career.

HIT AGAIN NEXT YEAR

As a matter of fact, Gildea will have to suffer from this ruling again next season.

Fred Burnham and Danny Frasier are now juniors at the school, playing their last season. Neither of these boys have repeated, but will be forced to act the same role as Puglieli plays this campaign.
